9 Workers Are Slain; Man Held

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) — The bodies of nine transient fruit workers, hacked with a machete or some kind of heavy knife, have been unearthed from the peach and plum orchards of this farming community, the county sheriff announced today.

Sheriff Whiteacre said Juan V. Corona, 37, a farm labor contractor, was arrested shortly before dawn without resistance at a Richland Road home.

"He will be booked for nine counts of murder," the sheriff said of Corona. Whiteacre did not announce an alleged motive for the slayings.

Undersheriff Frank Cartoscelli said all the victims were transient fruit workers, ranging in age from 40 to 60 and that the times of the killings ranged from five or six weeks ago to sometime this week.

Corona was led into the county jail with his head covered by a sweater and coat, his hands manacled behind his back. He was under heavy guard, after his arrest in south Yuba City.

Two dozen deputies had raided the same house earlier only to find it unoccupied. The bodies were found—eight Tuesday and one last Friday—in two local fruit orchards. All were in shallow graves.

General Vows Crackdown On Brawling

Travis Spokesman Reports Air Base Back To Normal

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The senior officer at this major Vietnam embarkation point vowed Tuesday not to tolerate further racial brawling which led to the arrest of 135 airmen.

"Whatever action is necessary will be taken to insure it doesn't happen again," Maj. Gen. William G. Moore, senior officer at this 10,000 man base, said at a news conference.

He added that Monday night's brawl in which 600 men fought with fists and clubs "is related to the over-all U.S. racial dilemma." A Travis spokesman reported Tuesday night: "Everything is normal. There have been no new incidents."

More than 200 military policemen were on duty at the base, which is home for the 22nd Air Force.

Air police aided by 78 civilian law enforcement officers quelled the disturbance Monday night when the worst of the trouble erupted. There also was brawling Saturday night and Sunday.

A fire in the bachelor officers' quarters Monday caused an estimated $5,000 damage and a civilian fireman died of a heart attack while fighting the flames.

All but 89 of those arrested were freed Tuesday. A base spokesman said 25 in custody were white, the others black. A spokesman said all were assigned to the base, not transients.

A black airman interviewed on the base Tuesday said blacks had demanded the freeing of three blacks jailed following a brawl with white airmen Sunday.

After the three hour debate over Nixon's proposal to merge the Peace Corps, VISTA and several other volunteer agencies into a new Action Corps, the House Tuesday voted 224-131 in favor of the administration plan.

Before the House vote, the administration gave assurances more money would be spent and changes made in the administration of the Action Corps and that the congressional committees now with jurisdiction over volunteer agencies would retain that control.

Liberal House members, led by Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., expressed concern during debate that the Nixon plan would "diminish, if not completely eliminate, the effectiveness of the constituent programs."

"Thrown together like so many apples and oranges into one basket, these programs would soon lose their identity and their force," said Thompson.

The primary cause of concern was that the administration was using the merger as a means to eliminate Volunteers in Action to America, the domestic antipoverty volunteer arm of the Office of Economic Affairs.

Vote On Ohio Budget Near; Republicans Still Divided

Tax Chief Bemoans Cut In Funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Enactment of a state income tax would require the State Tax Department to more than double its floor space and number of employees.

Tax Commissioner Robert J. Kosydar said it also would cost $11.3 million in 1972 to administer the personal and corporate income tax proposed by Gov. John Gilligan.

A county income tax such as Republicans in the Legislature propose, would "almost triple the collection costs," Kosydar said.

If the Gilligan tax passes, he said the department would create a new division of income tax that would require 60,000 additional square feet of space for computers, records and staff. The department now occupies 50,000 square feet of office space in downtown Columbus.

Kosydar said the department would need 900 employees in addition to the 740 it now employs, to administer the new tax.

Passage of the state income tax, he said, would require the department to install computers costing $1 million annually to rent.

He estimated it would cost $9.5 million to administer the personal income tax in 1972 and an additional $1.8 million to administer the tax on corporations.

These figures include computer rental and salaries for new employees.

This cost represents about eight-tenths per cent of the total income tax revenues, Stan Spaulding, the department's information officer said.

The department expects to process about 4.3 million returns in 1972 if the tax is approved, Kosydar said.

He said a county income tax, which Republican leaders are pushing, would "almost triple the costs," due to double handling of returns and present "unbelievable problems of compliance," particularly for big companies.

Business leaders have told legislators such a tax would compound their accounting

Ex - Lima State Attendant Tells Of Shock Brutality

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—The Cleveland Plain Dealer said today a former attendant at Lima State Hospital has told them that electric shock treatments are employed at the hospital as punishment and threats.

The newspaper also said that the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Cleveland is collecting information on reported brutalities and mistreatment of patients at the hospital and forwarding it to the civil rights division of the U.S. Justice Department in Washington.

The Plain Dealer said it discovered the use of electric shock treatments on patients from Mrs. Jean Newman, 45, a former attendant who the newspaper said resigned from Lima State because of patient abuse.

Mrs. Newman, said the Plain Dealer, witnessed a female patient—a drug addict—who was subjected to shock "become a human vegetable."

They said Mrs. Newman told them federal agents had upset the girl with their continuous questioning and that she started whimpering and screaming.

"So seven of us got her," the Plain Dealer quoted her as saying, and "we put her on a cart, something like an operating table, and strapped her down, face up."

"Then someone turned on the electricity—a nurse, maybe a psychiatrist—I'm not sure, the girl didn't know anything.

"I'm pretty strong," Mrs. Newman was quoted as saying. "But that was absolutely the worst thing. The woman was transformed from a human being into a jelly within a few minutes."

Although electric shock treatment can aid patients, Mrs. Newman told the Plain Dealer,

"At Lima, it was done only as punishment or threat. Certainly not to help the patients."

Also in Lima, Nicholas Curci, the assistant attorney general in charge of an investigation of Lima State Hospital, says he expects to start taking testimony soon from attendants and hospital officials.

U.S. Forces In Europe Reported Not Combat Ready

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military officials report American forces in Europe still are not fully combat ready despite improvement in weapons.

They have told Congress a tight budget and cutbacks in overall U.S. manpower have caused the situation in the main.

Nevertheless, the European command maintains a "very respectable fighting capability," Gen. David A. Burchinal, deputy U.S. commander in Europe, recently told the House Appropriations Committee.

This is only good enough to hold the line in early stages of an attack on Western Europe, he said. "We are dependent on rapid, timely and substantial augmentation from the United States if we are to undertake sustained combat operations."

Shortages of various kinds began cutting into the combat readiness of American forces in Europe, the United States and elsewhere in 1965 as the Vietnam war claimed first priority in men and equipment.

Although Pentagon leaders have stressed their intention the last two years to repair the deficiencies as the war winds down, Burchinal said: "Not all U.S. forces in Europe are currently considered fully combat ready."

There are many reasons for this, including our share of reductions the services have been forced to make, lower assigned personnel strengths and skill levels . . . less money for training and exercises, and the priority of Vietnam requirements."

Cuts in the number of foreign nationals on U.S. military payrolls for economy reasons, Burchinal said, "has required use of military personnel for house-keeping duties, and a number of troops are thus diverted daily from their primary military duties."

Judge Rejects Henderson Bid For Witnesses

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — A military judge has denied a request that Army Secretary Stanley Resor and Chief of Staff Gen. William C. Westmoreland be called as defense witnesses for Col. Oran K. Henderson, accused of participating in an alleged cover-up of the My Lai massacre.

Ruling Tuesday at an evidence hearing, Col. Peter S. Wondolowski said that Henderson's lawyer failed to demonstrate the possible relevancy of testimony by Resor and Westmoreland to Henderson's case.

Henry Rothblatt, Henderson's civilian lawyer, gave no specific details why he wanted Resor and Westmoreland called to the witness stand. But he said there is an "urgent" need for the general's testimony.

The request for Wondolowski to subpoena the two officials came after the prosecution called its last current witness in an attempt to rebut defense contentions Henderson was not properly advised of his testimonial rights when he appeared before a Pentagon inquiry headed by Lt. Gen. William R. Peers into the alleged cover-up.

Storms Lash Much Of U.S.

Temperature Dip Follows Front

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS High winds and thunderstorms lashed wide areas of the nation today and temperatures fell from the Great Lakes region as far south as the lower Mississippi Valley.

Rain and showers were scattered across the Gulf Coast states and up the Atlantic Coast into New England. The National Weather Service issued severe-thunderstorm watches for most of New England, New York and Rhode Island.

In Philadelphia, officials said high winds did "considerable damage" with roofs reported to have been blown off at least four homes. No injuries were reported.

In the Pacific Northwest residents of Heppner, in eastern Oregon, began to dig out from more than three feet of mud and silt left behind by a flash flood late Tuesday.

No one was injured city officials said, but homes were washed from their foundations, cars were overturned, the wall of the municipal swimming pool broke under the water pressure, and telephone lines were toppled.

Within an hour most of the water drained from the community of about 1,388 and emptied back into nearby Willow Creek. Paul Jones, Morrow County judge, said damage could run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, however.

A storm, which continued to move through the Great Lakes region sent the mercury tumbling over the upper Mississippi Valley, the Ohio Valley and into the Lower Mississippi and southern Appalachian region.

Summer-like temperatures prevailed in the Southwest with afternoon readings Tuesday rushing past the 100 mark. A high of 102 was reported at Buckeye, Ariz., and 101 was the peak at Youngtown, Ariz., and Imperial, Calif.

Temperatures early today ranged from 38 at Alexandria, Minn., to 86 at Needles, Calif.

Saxbe And Taft Agree COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Republican Sens. William B. Saxbe and Robert Taft Jr. voted with the majority as the Senate rejected 52-21 Tuesday an amendment by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., to bar sending draftees to Vietnam unless they volunteer.

The traditional demand-supply relationship is being virtually ignored in the mortgage market where there is a surplus of loanable funds," John A. Stastny, president of the National Association of Homebuilders, said Tuesday.

"There is no justification in the money markets to warrant any rate increases," he added. But, he said, the associations' economist and staff members of the Council of Economic Advisors have indicated to him they expect an increase this year.

The ceiling on Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration loans is now 7 per cent, a sharp decline from the 8.5 per cent peak in 1970. Stastny said interest rates would not drop lower "because of the expectation that inflation is not under control."

The strong flow of money into the mortgage market was underscored by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board's report Tuesday that net savings flowing into federal savings and loan associations reached $2.1 billion in April, the largest amount on record for the month. The total marked a decline from $2.6 billion net savings flow recorded in March.

Graduated County Tax Under Study

By PERRY SMITH Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — House Republicans remained divided today over an alternative tax package, but Speaker Charles F. Kurfess still promised a vote on a budget measure within the week.

Republicans, during a two-hour caucus Tuesday night, modified their stand on a flat rate, county-collected and administered personal and corporate income tax of one or two per cent.

The modifications left several members bitter. A few indicated they may hold their own news conference Wednesday to challenge the caucus viewpoint.

Kurfess, at a news conference following the caucus, remained noncommittal on specifics except to say exemptions up to $3,000 may be put into the flat rate proposal, admittedly making it a graduated tax.

The new GOP position represents a considerable shift from a stand taken last Thursday when, following a marathon caucus, Kurfess, R-4 Perryssburg, announced that flat rate county taxes would probably be substituted for the administration tax package.

Gov. John Gilligan has asked the legislature for a two-year budget of $9.1 billion and graduated state income taxes on personal and corporate earnings. The income taxes would net the state $1.6 billion in new revenues, backers say.

Kurfess admitted late Tuesday, however, that the GOP was still divided "on graduation of both personal and corporate income taxes."

He also told reporters a ten per cent reduction in all real estate taxes was discussed during the two-hour meeting. Money to compensate local governments for their tax losses would be made up through income taxes.

One Senate Republican called the proposal little more than "taking money out of one pocket and putting it into another. The only people it will benefit are the wealthy," he said.

"What the hell are the House Republicans doing anyway?" he asked.

Mortgage Rate Hike Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mortgage interest rates have bottomed out and are expected to rise soon, perhaps by as much as half a percentage point, "for no reason that we can clearly understand," reports a leader in the homebuilding industry.

"The traditional demand-supply relationship is being virtually ignored in the mortgage market where there is a surplus of loanable funds," John A. Stastny, president of the National Association of Homebuilders, said Tuesday.

"There is no justification in the money markets to warrant any rate increases," he added. But, he said, the associations' economist and staff members of the Council of Economic Advisors have indicated to him they expect an increase this year.

Dismissal Of Seale-Huggins Charges 'Unusual'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The judge's dismissal of murder-kidnap charges against Black Panthers Bobby G. Seale and Ericka Huggins may not be unprecedented, but it is highly unusual.

At least once in the recent past, a judge has thrown out the case of controversial defendants who had already gone through one trial because he decided jurors prejudiced by adverse publicity could not be found.

Still, Judge Harold V. Murray's action Monday in New Haven was extraordinary. The usual course would have been for him to provide for a cooling-off period and then a new trial of Seale and Mrs. Huggins elsewhere in Connecticut.

Much of the nation watched on television as Jack Ruby fired his 38-caliber revolver at Lee Harvey Oswald in a Dallas police station. But even though Ruby's murder conviction was reversed, partly because so many prospective jurors had witnessed the slaying, the nightclub operator would have gone on trial in Wichita Falls, 140 miles northwest of Dallas, had he not succumbed to cancer.

More recently, there was the highly publicized case of Alice Crimmins, the ex-barrmaid accused of garroting one of her children and arranging to have the second killed.

Her manslaughter conviction was overturned, but three years later she was tried again in New York City. This time it was for murder and she was convicted.

The distinction, suggests a Milwaukee lawyer and former government prosecutor, may be that the Seale-Huggins case and its predecessor, trial of the "Milwaukee 14," had "political overtones that gain the publicity."

The lawyer, Franklyn M. Gimbel, represented federal judge Myron Gordon, who dismissed federal charges against 10 of the Vietnam war protesters in 1969 because "of the effect of adverse publicity on the prospective jurors."

The 10 had been convicted earlier in state court on charges of burglary, arson and theft. The Justice Department appealed Judge Gordon's action, but the Supreme Court refused on Feb. 24, 1970, to overrule him.

Gimbel, in a telephone interview, said "this case was as close a parallel to the Seale-Huggins ruling as you can find in recent jurisprudence in this country."

Only two of the nine Justices, Warren E. Burger and Potter Stewart, favored hearing the government's argument that judges must either switch the site of a trial, delay it until the publicity eases or keep trying to empanel an unbiased jury.

General Vows Crackdown On Brawling

Travis Spokesman Reports Air Base Back To Normal

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The senior officer at this major Vietnam embarkation point vowed Tuesday not to tolerate further racial brawling which led to the arrest of 135 airmen.

"Whatever action is necessary will be taken to insure it doesn't happen again," Maj. Gen. William G. Moore, senior officer at this 10,000 man base, said at a news conference.

He added that Monday night's brawl in which 600 men fought with fists and clubs "is related to the over-all U.S. racial dilemma." A Travis spokesman reported Tuesday night: "Everything is normal. There have been no new incidents."

More than 200 military policemen were on duty at the base, which is home for the 22nd Air Force.

Air police aided by 78 civilian law enforcement officers quelled the disturbance Monday night when the worst of the trouble erupted. There also was brawling Saturday night and Sunday.

A black airman interviewed on the base Tuesday said blacks had demanded the freeing of three blacks jailed following a brawl with white airmen Sunday.

Nixon Wins Action Corps OK In House

WASHINGTON (AP) — It cost money in the bargaining, but the Nixon administration has won a decisive congressional victory for consolidating federal volunteer programs.

After the three hour debate over Nixon's proposal to merge the Peace Corps, VISTA and several other volunteer agencies into a new Action Corps, the House Tuesday voted 224-131 in favor of the administration plan.

Before the House vote, the administration gave assurances more money would be spent and changes made in the administration of the Action Corps and that the congressional committees now with jurisdiction over volunteer agencies would retain that control.

The primary cause of concern was that the administration was using the merger as a means to eliminate Volunteers in Action to America, the domestic antipoverty volunteer arm of the Office of Economic Affairs.

A federal judge entered an injunction Tuesday for the defendants after they refused to do so. Instead they tried to read personal statements in court denouncing the indictment and the Vietnam war.

Herman refused to permit reading of the statements, ruling them as "out of place," but accepted them for the record.

In a joint statement following the arraignment the defendants reaffirmed their previous declaration: "We are neither bombers, nor kidnapers nor conspirators."

Ex-Lima State Attendant Tells Of Shock Brutality

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Plain Dealer said today a former attendant at Lima State Hospital has told them that electric shock treatments are employed at the hospital as punishment and threats.

The newspaper also said that the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Cleveland is collecting information on reported brutalities and mistreatment of patients at the hospital and forwarding it to the civil rights division of the U.S. Justice Department in Washington.

The Plain Dealer said it discovered the use of electric shock treatments on patients from Mrs. Jean Newman, 46, a former attendant who the newspaper said resigned from Lima State because of patient abuse.

Mrs. Newman, said the Plain Dealer, witnessed a female patient—a drug addict—who was subjected to shock "become a human vegetable."

They said Mrs. Newman told them federal agents had upset the girl with their continuous questioning and that she started whimpering and screaming.

"So seven of us got her," the Plain Dealer quoted her as saying, and "we put her on a cart, something like an operating table, and strapped her down, face up."

After carrying her into a room on the third floor, the Plain Dealer said Mrs. Newman told them, "attendants put wires on her head and feet and body. She was squirming and sweating. Of course, still moaning.

"Then someone turned on the electricity—a nurse, maybe a psychiatrist—I'm not sure, the girl didn't know anything.

"I'm pretty strong," Mrs. Newman was quoted as saying. "But that was absolutely the worst thing. The woman was transformed from a human being into a jelly within a few minutes."

Although electric shock treatment can aid patients, Mrs. Newman told the Plain Dealer, "At Lima, it was done only as punishment or threat. Certainly not to help the patients."

Also in Lima, Nicholas Curci, the assistant attorney general in charge of an investigation of Lima State Hospital, says he expects to start taking testimony soon from attendants and hospital officials.

U.S. Forces In Europe Reported Not Combat Ready

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military officials report American forces in Europe still are not fully combat ready despite improvement in weapons.

They have told Congress a tight budget and cutbacks in overall U.S. manpower have caused the situation in the main.

Nevertheless, the European command maintains a "very respectable fighting capability," Gen. David A. Burchinal, deputy U.S. commander in Europe, recently told the House Appropriations Committee.

This is only good enough to hold the line in early stages of an attack on Western Europe, he said. "We are dependent on rapid, timely and substantial augmentation from the United States if we are to undertake sustained combat operations."

Shortages of various kinds began cutting into the combat readiness of American forces in Europe, the United States and elsewhere in 1965 as the Vietnam war claimed first priority in men and equipment.

Although Pentagon leaders have stressed their intention the last two years to repair the deficiencies as the war winds down, Burchinal said: "Not all U.S. forces in Europe are currently considered fully combat ready."

"There are many reasons for this, including our share of reductions the services have been forced to make, lower assigned personnel strengths and skill levels... less money for training and exercises, and the priority of Vietnam requirements."

Cuts in the number of foreign nationals on U.S. military payrolls for economy reasons, Burchinal said, "has required use of military personnel for housekeeping duties, and a number of troops are thus diverted daily from their primary military duties."

Judge Rejects Henderson Bid For Witnesses

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — A military judge has denied a request that Army Secretary Stanley Resor and Chief of Staff Gen. William C. Westmoreland be called as defense witnesses for Col. Oran K. Henderson, accused of participating in an alleged cover-up of the My Lai massacre.

Ruling Tuesday at an evidence hearing, Col. Peter S. Wondolowski said that Henderson's lawyer failed to demonstrate the possible relevancy of testimony by Resor and Westmoreland to Henderson's case.

Henry Rothblatt, Henderson's civilian lawyer, gave no specific details why he wanted Resor and Westmoreland called to the witness stand. But he said there is an "urgent" need for the general's testimony.

The request for Wondolowski to subpoena the two officials came after the prosecution called its last current witness in an attempt to rebut defense contentions Henderson was not properly advised of his testimonial rights when he appeared before a Pentagon inquiry headed by Lt. Gen. William R. Peers into the alleged cover-up.

Trustees Named To Technical Institute

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Delbert A. Fordham, 56, of Marietta, and Neal S. Boyce, 48, of Lowell, were appointed by Gov. John Gilligan Tuesday to the board of trustees of the Washington District Technical Institute.

Fordham, a member of a sales planning and advisory firm, was named to a three-year term. Boyce, business manager and financial secretary of Local 972, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, will serve two years.

Dismissal Of Seale-Huggins Charges 'Unusual'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The judge's dismissal of murder-kidnap charges against Black Panthers Bobby G. Seale and Ericka Huggins may not be unprecedented, but it is highly unusual.

At least once in the recent past, a judge has thrown out the case of controversial defendants who had already gone through one trial because he decided jurors prejudiced by adverse publicity could not be found.

Still, Judge Harold V. Murvey's action Monday in

Haven was extraordinary. The usual course would have been for him to provide for a cooling-off period and then a new trial of Seale and Mrs. Huggins elsewhere in Connecticut.

Much of the nation watched on television as Jack Ruby fired his .38-caliber revolver at Lee Harvey Oswald in a Dallas police station. But even though Ruby's murder conviction was reversed, partly because so many prospective jurors had witnessed the slaying, the nightclub operator would have gone on trial in Wichita Falls, 140 miles northwest of Dallas, had he not succumbed to cancer.

More recently, there was the highly publicized case of Alice Crimmins, the ex-barmaid accused of garroting one of her children and arranging to have the second killed.

Her manslaughter conviction was overturned, but three years later she was tried again in New York City. This time it was for murder and she was convicted.

The distinction, suggests a Milwaukee lawyer and former government prosecutor, may be that the Seale-Huggins case and its predecessor, trial of the "Milwaukee 14," had "political overtones that gain the publicity."

The lawyer, Franklin M. Gimbel, represented federal judge Myron Gordon, who dismissed federal charges against 10 of the Vietnam war protesters in 1969 because "of the effect of adverse publicity on the prospective jurors."

The 10 had been convicted earlier in state court on charges of burglary, arson and theft. The Justice Department appealed Judge Gordon's action, but the Supreme Court refused on Feb. 24, 1970, to overrule him.

Gimbel, in a telephone interview, said "this case was as close a parallel to the Seale-Huggins ruling as you can find in recent jurisprudence in this country."

Only two of the nine Justices, Warren E. Burger and Potter Stewart, favored hearing the government's argument that judges must either switch the site of a trial, delay it until the publicity fades or keep trying to empanel an unbiased jury.

Curci has set up offices in the institution for the criminally insane and began Tuesday checking out accusations of mistreatment of inmates.

He is being assigned by four highway patrolmen, one of whom is a polygraph expert. Curci said, however, use of the lie detector would be "selective."

The investigation follows an informal probe of hospital activities by Lima attorney Robert Mihlbaugh for the attorney general's office.

His report contained accusations of alleged mistreatment of inmates and undue restraint on some patients who simply were retarded and not criminally insane.

Curci said it is too early to tell what direction his investigation might take.

A special grand jury might be called to weigh results of the investigation, or results might be turned over to the regular Allen County grand jury.

The second body was discovered.

Searching further, deputies found four more graves close together three-quarters of a mile away. A half-mile in the opposite direction they found the other three.

Late Tuesday night deputies dug for bodies beneath auxiliary powered lights in a drizzle briefly turned into a rainstorm. The area was cordoned off to preserve any evidence that might be found.

Packard Says Military Pay Boost Could Hurt Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has told the Senate a $5-billion military pay raise over one year could have "an extremely serious impact upon our national security."

Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard made the attack Tuesday in a letter to Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., concerning an amendment to the draft extension bill offered by Sens. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, and Richard S. Schweiker R-Pa.

Packard said the amendment, up for a vote today after action was completed on a move to extend Selective Service by 18 months, could lead to major base closings and serious economic problems.

The 18-month extension proposal by Colorado Republican Peter Dominick was opposed by both those seeking a two-year addition as approved by the House and those who want it limited to 12 months. The current draft law expires June 30.

The Hughes-Schweiker amendment would boost the $1-billion military pay raise sought by the Nixon administration to the $2.7 billion approved earlier by the House.

Stennis, floor manager of the bill, said already-planned pay raises of $1.2 billion each in January 1971 and January 1972, plus the $1 billion proposed by the President, would provide $3.4 billion in military pay boosts in one year. He said the Hughes-Schweiker amendment would raise that to more than $5 billion.

Appeal Is Refused For Hamilton Man

CINCINNATI (AP) — The First District Court of Appeals refused Tuesday to hear an appeal by Jack Young, former Hamilton, Ohio, councilman who lost his seat on government because he works for the Hamilton School Board.

The Hamilton city charter forbids councilmen to hold an other elective position or be a public employee. Young, who is a teacher, has been ordered out of council by the Butler County Common Pleas Court as the result of a taxpayer suit by Mayor Mark Petty.

Packard said such a boost would necessitate a 250,000-man military personnel cutback and a 6-per-cent reduction in defense contracts totaling $2 billion.

Packard's letter was regarded as an administration effort to head off passage of the Hughes-Schweiker amendment which sponsors said would complement the one-year draft extension.

problems. Kosydar said companies would have particular difficulty determining in which county income was actually earned.

If legislators pass Gov. Gilligan's proposed state income by June 30, Kosydar said his department will be ready to mail withholding tables to employers the next day.

The department would then go ahead with renting new office space and phasing in new employees, he said.

He said first returns are expected to begin flowing in Aug. 15, assuming the tax is approved by the June 30 deadline when current appropriations expire.

With proposed cuts in the department's budget of nearly 50 per cent from what Gilligan asked, Spaulding said tax officials are worried if they will be able to administer the tax.

Gilligan had asked $54.6 million for the tax department over the next two years, but Republicans have already cut that in committee to $30.6 million. The department's current budget is $14.9 million.

Gilligan Slates Dayton Speech

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan will discuss mental health in an address here tonight before 400 delegates to the state convention of the League of Women Voters.

The speech was to highlight a day of convention activities which included presentation to delegates of the league's proposed program for the coming year.

League President Mary Ellen Ludlum of Columbus said Tuesday tax reform would be the major concern of the convention this year because it is the most prominent issue before the Legislature.

Airline Pays $560,000 In Jetliner Bomb Hoax

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — An Australian airline paid a ransom of $560,000 today to a gang that claimed to have put a barometric bomb on a Boeing 707 jetliner with more than 200 persons aboard.

Qantas, Australia's international airline, made the payoff in the center of the city just as the plane landed safely at Sydney's international airport. It had circled for six and a half hours while all defense forces and police personnel went on a red alert to deal with the emergency.

Eight ships of the Royal Australian Navy, including two submarines and three destroyers, were rushed to the Botany Bay area on the edge of the airport.

An anonymous caller had telephoned the airport and said a bomb had been put in an airport locker. Police raced to the locker area and found the bomb.

With it were three notes. One said a similar bomb had been put aboard Qantas flight 753, which had left two and a half hours earlier for Hong Kong.

Examination of the bomb showed it was fitted with an unconnected barometric device. If connected, it would explode below 20,000 feet.

Also in the locker was a demand for $500,000 ransom, or $560,000 U.S.

The notes said the location of the bomb on the plane and instructions how to defuse it would be given when the ransom was paid.

The aircraft, then en route to a stop at Darwin, on the north coast, was ordered to return to Sydney immediately. The passengers were not told of the bomb threat, and the crew searched the plane but found nothing suspicious.

While a blackout was put on news of the threat, Qantas officials conferred feverishly with military and police authorities. They decided that the money must be paid.

Instructions for the payoff came in a telephone call to Qantas from a "Mr. Brown." He said Capt. Robert J. Ritchie, general manager of Qantas, should hand over the money in front of the airline's office in the center of the city.

Qantas officials raced around the banks, collecting the money.

At 5:45 p.m. Ritchie walked into the street.

A yellow hire van drew up beside him and a man identified himself as "Mr. Brown." Ritchie handed over the suitcases of money, and the van sped away into the rush-hour traffic.

"Brown" was believed to have worn a false beard.

Grads Approved By A-C Board

Amanda-Clearcreek Board of Education passed on a list of 67 seniors who will graduate Thursday from the high school.

During their May meeting, graduation plans presented by Superintendent William A. Smith were reviewed and approved for the upcoming commencement ceremonies.

The board discussed types of replacement windows for the buildings and were notified that work had been completed on the new fence at Stoutsville.

Stoutsville PTO asked permission to enter into an agreement with Bexley Decorating Co. to paint the Stoutsville gymnasium ceiling. This project received board approval.

In other business, maintenance service for business and office typewriters was granted to Heimbarger Office Machines, and contracts offered to a number of non-certificated personnel. Three teaching contracts were also offered for the 1971-72 school year.

Clerk Ann Cole was authorized to attend the Clerk-Treasurer's Workshop in June at the Center of Tomorrow in Columbus.

Scioto Society Pays Tribute To Author

Author Allan Eckert left Thursday for his Florida home after a visit with citizens in Pike, Pickaway and Ross Counties.

He plans to return in August with a rough draft of the Scioto Society's play, "Tecumseh!"

Eckert reportedly enjoyed his visit to the Scioto Valley to view the amphitheatre site and meeting with supporters of the project. He was guest of honor at a reception Sunday in the restored Clarke-May home which is headquarters for the Pickaway County Historical Society.

Residents of Circleville, Ashville and all corners of the county, numbering 125, were on hand to greet the author and hear about the outdoor drama planned for this region.

Eckert is well-known for his historical books, including "The Frontiersmen," "The Conquerors" and "Bluejacket" which have received notice and nominations for Pulitzer awards.

Tonight an interview of Allan Eckert by Mrs. Walter Hall, a member of the county library staff, will be aired at 6:30 on WJRE. Residents will have another opportunity to become acquainted with the man whose writing has played an important part in the recording of Ohio's heritage. Mrs. Hall will question him about his personal life, discuss with him his book, "The Frontiersmen," as well as the Indian Tecumseh and the outdoor drama.

Anyone interested in working with the Scioto Society in their campaign to bring the amphitheatre to the area are asked to call Mrs. William Robertson, Pickaway County's division chairman at 474-8434.

Capable Of Solution

It probably isn't much fun these days being president of an American auto manufacturing company, what with assaults by imports, safety enthusiasts and pollution controllers. But it does seem that Detroit is asking for unnecessary problems by stalling on the bumper issue.

Aside from the cosmetic effect, it would seem to a layman that one of the easiest parts of a car to design should be its bumper. Yet the manufacturers have allowed themselves to be pictured in a ridiculous light by admitting their present bumpers cannot withstand an impact at 5 miles per hour or less. Not without, in many cases, considerable structural damage to the car.

Rather than let the issue drag on as it has, why not inaugurate a campaign to see who can produce the best bumper at least cost? Perhaps a contest among college engineering students might produce interesting results, and promote good will as well.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — A major contributor to the high cost of medical service is the maintenance of duplicate facilities by the individual hospitals, clinics and other units that serve a single area.

One of the main causes of inadequate medical care is the inability of smaller hospitals to attract top flight personnel, not solely because they are unable to afford them but also because they cannot offer opportunities.

Experiments now under way in several communities suggest that the problems might be licked through mergers in a manner somewhat similar to those that produce the conglomerate corporate form in the business world.

In North and East Arizona, where nine hospitals ranging from 14 to 724 beds have been merged into the Samaritan Health Service, the movement is well beyond the experimental stage and some results already are in.

Stephen Morris, president-elect of the American Hospital Association, reports "the mergers, without exception, have strengthened the financial base of the merged institution, particularly with regard to capital funds."

He lists five areas of accomplishment:

1. A greater capacity to attract high-quality management expertise. "A single hospital, I think, does not have the financial ability to pull in the data processing people, the systems analysts, the cost analysts."
2. The capacity to organize and plan on a regional basis. The tiny hospital at Grand Canyon, for example, now has the use of the expertise and facilities of the huge Good Samaritan Hospital in Phoenix.

3. The capacity to better utilize medical and professional talent.
4. The capacity to offer economies of scale, such as in the operation of data processing equipment, laundries, purchasing. "We saved $90,000 in insurance premiums last year through centralization."

5. The capacity to provide a complete range of health services. The goal is "one organization that can produce a total package rather than requiring the patient to go to four or five different organizations to get his health care piecemeal."
- While still awaiting results of a two-year study of costs, Morris already can report a slower increase in costs than the national average of hospitals. Samaritan's bills rose 8 per cent compared with a national average of 12; last year the percentages were 9 and 15.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — All those liberated women demanding that men do their fair share of the housework obviously have never seen the male of the species on the scrub line.

Even if the spirit is willing, the flesh is weak. And slow. And inefficient.

Take my friend's situation, for example. She is blessed—or burdened as the case may be—with a cooperative husband.

When she announces it's house-cleaning time, he volunteers to help—after he's finished whatever else he happens to be doing, usually a lengthy endeavor.

Unfortunately his and her ideas of house cleaning differ. She's a "sweep-it-under-the-rug" cleaner. He's an Army-conditioned "not-a-speck-of-dust" type.

Tops of cabinets, bottoms of tables, backs of bookcases. All must be spotless.

Ignoring specific requests for help—"How about taking out the garbage dear?"—super-spouse begins cleaning by marshaling forces for a major assault on one room—usually the bathroom.

Bank Writes Off $7.7 Million

CINCINNATI (AP) — The First National Bank of Cincinnati Tuesday reported a drop of nearly $7.7 million in the bank's income for the first six months of 1971 "as a result of writing off bad debts."

William N. Liggett, president, said earnings per share for the first six months will be reduced "to a nominal figure," however.

The bank did not name the bad debts but blamed the drop on "a downturn in the economy and a significant credit shortage" starting in the latter part of 1969 and continuing into 1971.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A MIDTOWN night club, determined to bar the weirdies from its premises, adamantly refused admittance to four unkempt, suspicious-looking characters, but had to submit apologies when they found it was a rock group they just had hired to open at $20,000 a week.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A cramp in my leg wakes me during the night. The pain is severe. Can this condition be prevented or cured?

Mr. H.F., Neb.

Dear Mr. F.: Almost all of us have been awakened from a deep sleep by a sudden, excruciating pain in the calf muscles or the toes. Although it may last for only a few minutes, this pain can cause a great deal of distress.

The only way to control and prevent these cramps is to find the reason for them.

The fundamental cause is some narrowing, or spasm, of the artery that brings blood and oxygen to the leg, the foot and the toes.

In some it may be caused by arteriosclerosis; in others, it may be spasm caused by accumulated toxicity of tobacco. Tight bed sheets can also restrict the movement of the legs and further impair circulation.

A general physical examination may turn up a reason for cramps. Doctors frequently suggest small doses of quinine as an effective method of preventing these spasms.

Don't worry about the cramp; it will disappear in a few moments. And don't slap the leg; it only makes the spasm more intense. Warm, moist compresses can bring relief if the spasm persists.

When I get such a cramp, I try not to move my leg or foot. Then I gently bring my toes up and almost invariably, within a few seconds, the spasm disappears.

Is handball too strenuous an exercise for a man of 45? My husband plays every Sunday morning and comes home completely exhausted.

Mrs. T.V., Pa.

Dear Mrs. V.: I have said repeatedly that exercise in some form, with moderation, is beneficial to everyone.

Physicians today plan some exercise, even for people who have recovered from heart attacks.

Moderation is the key word. Any exercise that leads to exhaustion loses its benefits — and even invites danger.

There are few more punishing sports than four-wall or straight-wall handball. Your husband must be in excellent condition, especially if he still plays singles.

Is Anybody Listening?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Nobody seems to be in a mood to listen to caveats. Even yesterday's hawks are succumbing to the "get out of Vietnam at once" siren song on the ground that if we don't intend to win the war we might as well get rid of it in a hurry. But the "let us beware" signals are more cogent than ever if one only has the perspicacity to listen.

There is the warning uttered by Major Alexander de Seversky, for example. Major de Seversky, a Russian flier in World War I, once assisted General Billy Mitchell in the tests that proved the vulnerability of the battleship to bombing from the air. He developed the first good automatic bombsight and design the Thunderbolt fighter which played such an important part in World War II. His "Victory Through Air Power," published in 1942, was prophetic of the victory won by the Allies over the Nazis. In recent years he has been working on an electrostatic precipitator to take the smog out of the chimney stack before it has had a chance to pollute the whole urban atmosphere.

These are credentials that would entitle Major de Seversky to a hearing for anything he might care to say about the Vietnam War. It is obvious that he doesn't think much of the "defend-a-linear-border" strategy that we have pursued for six years of inconclusive fighting that has left the enemy's power centers and supply lines relatively intact.

In the present climate of opinion he seems loath to talk about our fundamental strategic error in Vietnam. He is emphatic about one thing, however. And that one thing concerns the danger of quitting South Vietnam on a total basis in precipitate haste.

Let us suppose, says de Seversky, that we remove all our support from the Saigon government before "Vietnamization" has really taken hold. There would surely be a groundswell of anger among the South Vietnamese army's rank-and-file. Assuming the inability of the South Vietnamese troops to stand up to the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong in battle without the aid of U.S. air and logistical support, there could be mass desertions to the enemy. It is not inconceivable that rebelling soldiers might turn on their officers. In which case, berserk South Vietnamese military cadres might descend on the last departing Americans at the docks before they could get away.

A Dunkirk evacuation of the last U.S. units would be impossible at 8,000 miles from home. There could be a shambles as the Viet Cong surfaced and Communist "sleepers" took over the Saigon government from within.

What makes de Seversky's warning double important is a fact that is not immediately apparent from his (military and aeronautical) biography. "I've lived through two revolutions," he says. The first was the Kerensky Revolution which supposedly turned the Russian government into a representative democracy. The second was the Bolshevik Revolution which ended in the Communist dictatorship. The major points out that a government fails when it shows a lack of will to defend its undertakings. Major de Seversky is afraid that if we show any weakness in our departure from Vietnam, it will be the signal for a mass slaughter of our last battalions at the docks.

Is anybody listening? I am sure that Henry Kissinger is fully aware of de Seversky's fears. But in the present atmosphere it is a problem to communicate any worries about the global future to the American people. A Blue Ribbon Defense Panel chaired by William Blackie, boss of the Caterpillar Tractor Company, has submitted a report on "The Shifting Balance of Military Power" to President Nixon and the Secretary of Defense. The report says that we delude ourselves when we play a "numbers game" that shows the U.S. capable of delivering 4,235 nuclear warheads as against only 1,880 by the Soviet Union. Among other things, the tabulation equates single bomb or air-to-ground missiles carried by a B-52 with single Soviet 25-megaton ICBMs. Says the report: "The 300 Soviet SS-9's, expected to be operational by the end of this year, will be capable of delivering 7,500 megatons with a destructive capability several times greater than the total warhead capacity of our entire ICBM and SLBM forces."

In short, we shall be a second-class power by the end of 1971. Who cares? A lot of people might care, but they don't seem to have access to the truth.

Mayor's Report

By Mayor

Richard L. Gerhardt

Several months ago a Community Survey was mailed out by the City requesting citizen's opinions on various topics concerning City improvements. The surveys were mailed randomly throughout the City and over 40 per cent of those mailed out were returned. This is more than double the number normally returned on such random surveys showing good citizen interest in City affairs.

The question and tabulation of the figures are set out below:

1. Do you think water softening should be installed? Yes 68 per cent, No 32 per cent.
2. Do you think the Police force should be enlarged? Yes 57, No 43 per cent.
3. Do you think the park system is adequate? Yes 61 per cent, No 39 per cent.
4. Do you think the Fire force should be enlarged? Yes 34 per cent, No 66 per cent.
5. Do you think City Health Service should be expanded? Yes 47 per cent, No 53 per cent.
6. Do you think City Hall should be restored? Build new one 20 per cent, Yes 56 per cent, No 24 per cent.
7. Do you think there is a traffic problem: (a) on Nicholas Drive Yes 70 per cent; No 30 per cent; (b) on US 22 East, Yes 80 per cent, No 20 per cent; (c) on North Court St. Yes 37 per cent, No 63 per cent; (d) in Downtown Area Yes 46 per cent; No 54 per cent.
8. Do you think the City should have a Building Official to enforce zoning, building, housing, electrical, plumbing and fire prevention codes? Yes 55 per cent, No 45 per cent.

In addition 85 per cent of those surveyed listed the City's streets as in fair or good condition, while 14 per cent said they were in poor and one per cent said they were in very good condition.

Forty per cent said they had on occasion called the City to make suggestions or report complaints while 60 per cent said they had never called. The City has a special number for that purpose.

The areas where the survey indicated Circleville citizens showed most concern was watersoftening and traffic congestion on Nicholas Drive and Route 22 East. The City is moving forward on all of these areas. The report on recommendations on how to proceed with softening the City's water is to be ready by mid June. A tentative deadline of January 1972 for installation has been set.

Through the use of State Issue I bond money, the City has been successful in setting aside a quarter-million dollars to improve Nicholas Drive. Council last month passed an ordinance which will finally allow plans to be prepared for this improvement.

With the increased traffic on Route 22 East, the completion of the new Type II state road and street system which makes the City eligible for matching money to improve areas like 22 East. The City's total share for any improvements made on such projects is only five per cent of the total cost or in other words for every $1 the City puts it gets $20 back.

Continued action on these and other projects continue to improve our City.

Stephen Morris, president-elect of the American Hospital Association, reports "the mergers, without exception, have strengthened the financial base of the merged institution, particularly with regard to capital funds."

He lists five areas of accomplishment:

1. A greater capacity to attract high-quality management expertise. "A single hospital, I think, does not have the financial ability to pull in the data processing people, the systems analysts, the cost analysts."

2. The capacity to organize and plan on a regional basis. The tiny hospital at Grand Canyon, for example, now has the use of the expertise and facilities of the huge Good Samaritan Hospital in Phoenix.

3. The capacity to better utilize medical and professional talent.

4. The capacity to offer economies of scale, such as in the operation of data processing equipment, laundries, purchasing. "We saved $90,000 in insurance premiums last year through centralization."

5. The capacity to provide a complete range of health services. The goal is "one organization that can produce a total package rather than requiring the patient to go to four or five different organizations to get his health care piecemeal."

While still awaiting results of a two-year study of costs, Morris already can report a slower increase in costs than the national average of hospitals. Samaritan's bills rose 8 per cent compared with a national average of 12; last year the percentages were 9 and 15.

"I am always being told my own stories," he lamented. An unimpressed London scribe summed it all up as "a plain case of the tale dogging the wag."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A cramp in my leg wakes me during the night. The pain is severe. Can this condition be prevented or cured?

Mr. H.F., Neb. Dear Mr. F.: Almost all of us have been awakened from a deep sleep by a sudden, excruciating pain in the calf muscles or the toes. Although it may last for only a few minutes, this pain can cause a great deal of distress.

The only way to control and prevent these cramps is to find the reason for them. The fundamental cause is some narrowing, or spasm, of the artery that brings blood and oxygen to the leg, the foot and the toes.

In some it may be caused by arteriosclerosis; in others, it may be spasm caused by accumulated toxicity of tobacco. Tight bed sheets can also restrict the movement of the legs and further impair circulation.

A general physical examination may turn up a reason for cramps. Doctors frequently suggest small doses of quinine as an effective method of preventing these spasms.

Don't worry about the cramp; it will disappear in a few moments. And don't slap the leg; it only makes the spasm more intense. Warm, moist compresses can bring relief if the spasm persists.

When I get such a cramp, I try not to move my leg or foot. Then I gently bring my toes up and almost invariably, within a few seconds, the spasm disappears.

Handball too strenuous an exercise for a man of 45? My husband plays every Sunday morning and comes home completely exhausted.

Mrs. T.V., Pa. Dear Mrs. V.: I have said repeatedly that exercise in some form, with moderation, is beneficial to everyone.

Physicians today plan some exercise, even for people who have recovered from heart attacks.

Moderation is the key word. Any exercise that leads to exhaustion loses its benefits — and even invites danger.

There are few more punishing sports than four-wall or straight-wall handball. Your husband must be in excellent condition, especially if he still plays singles.

It is always a mistake for a middle-aged athlete to compete with the accomplishments of his youth.

Nagging won't get him to stop playing handball. A better idea is to urge him to seek the advice of his doctor, who may induce him to find more moderate exercise.

What is the difference between "infectious" and "contagious"?

Miss I.E.G., N.D. Dear Miss G.: "Infectious" means that the disease is caused by a germ. "Contagious" means that a disease can be acquired by contact with infected persons.

All contagious diseases are infectious; not all infectious diseases are contagious, or "catching."

Is Anybody Listening?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Nobody seems to be in a mood to listen to caveats. Even yesterday's hawks are succumbing to the "get out of Vietnam at once" siren song on the ground that if we don't intend to win the war we might as well get rid of it in a hurry. But the "let us beware" signals are more cogent than ever if one only has the perspicacity to listen.

There is the warning uttered by Major Alexander de Seversky, for example. Major de Seversky, a Russian flier in World War I, once assisted General Billy Mitchell in the tests that proved the vulnerability of the battleship to bombing from the air. He developed the first good automatic bombsight and designed the Thunderbolt fighter which played such an important part in World War II. His "Victory Through Air Power," published in 1942, was prophetic of the victory won by the Allies over the Nazis. In recent years he has been working on an electrostatic precipitator to take the smog out of the chimney stack before it has had a chance to pollute the whole urban atmosphere.

These are credentials that would entitle Major de Seversky to a hearing for anything he might care to say about the Vietnam War. It is obvious that he doesn't think much of the "defend-a-linear-border" strategy that we have pursued for six years of inconclusive fighting that has left the enemy's power centers and supply lines relatively intact.

In the present climate of opinion he seems loath to talk about our fundamental strategic error in Vietnam. He is emphatic about one thing, however. And that one thing concerns the danger of quitting South Vietnam on a total basis in precipitate haste.

Let us suppose, says de Seversky, that we remove all our support from the Saigon government before "Vietnamization" has really taken hold. There would surely be a groundswell of anger among the South Vietnamese army's rank-and-file. Assuming the inability of the South Vietnamese troops to stand up to the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong in battle without the aid of U.S. air and logistical support, there could be mass desertions to the enemy. It is not inconceivable that rebelling soldiers might turn on their officers. In which case, berserk South Vietnamese military cadres might descend on the last departing Americans at the docks before they could get away.

A Dunkirk evacuation of the last U.S. units would be impossible at 8,000 miles from home. There could be a shambles as the Viet Cong surfaced and Communist "sleepers" took over the Saigon government from within.

What makes de Seversky's warning doubly important is a fact that is not immediately apparent from his (military and aeronautical) biography. "I've lived through two revolutions," he says. The first was the Kerensky Revolution which supposedly turned the Russian government into a representative democracy. The second was the Bolshevik Revolution which ended in the Communist dictatorship. The major points out that a government falls when it shows a lack of will to defend its undertakings. Major de Seversky is afraid that if we show any weakness in our departure from Vietnam it will be the signal for a mass slaughter of our last battalions at the dockside.

Is anybody listening? I am sure that Henry Kissinger is fully aware of de Seversky's fears. But in the present atmosphere it is a problem to communicate any worries about the global future to the American people. A Blue Ribbon Defense Panel chaired by William Blackie, boss of the Caterpillar Tractor Company, has submitted a report on "The Shifting Balance of Military Power" to President Nixon and the Secretary of Defense. The report says that we delude ourselves when we play a "numbers game" that shows the U.S. capable of delivering 4,235 nuclear warheads as against only 1,880 by the Soviet Union. Among other things, the tabulation equates single bomb or air-to-ground missiles carried by a B-52 with single Soviet 25-megaton ICBMs. Says the report: "The 300 Soviet SS-9's, expected to be operational by the end of this year, will be capable of delivering 7,500 megatons with a destructive capability several times greater than the total warhead capacity of our entire ICBM and SLBM forces."

In short, we shall be a second-class power by the end of 1971. Who cares? A lot of people might care, but they don't seem to have access to the truth.

Mayor's Report

By Mayor

Richard L. Gerhardt

Several months ago a Community Survey was mailed out by the City requesting citizen's opinions on various topics concerning City improvements.

The surveys were mailed randomly throughout the City and over 40 per cent of those mailed out were returned. This is more than double the number normally returned on such random surveys showing good citizen interest in City affairs.

The question and tabulation of the figures are set out below:

1. Do you think water softening should be installed? Yes 68 per cent, No 32 per cent.
2. Do you think the Police force should be enlarged? Yes 57, No. 43 per cent.
3. Do you think the park system is adequate? Yes 61 per cent, No. 39 per cent.
4. Do you think the Fire force should be enlarged? Yes 34 per cent, No 66 per cent.
5. Do you think City Health Service should be expanded? Yes 47 per cent, No 53 per cent.
6. Do you think City Hall should be restored? Build new one 20 per cent, Yes 56 per cent, No 24 per cent.
7. Do you think there is a traffic problem: (a) on Nicholas Drive Yes 70 per cent; No 30 per cent; (b) on US 22 East, Yes 80 per cent, No 20 per cent; (c) on North Court St. Yes 37 per cent, No 63 per cent; (d) in Downtown Area Yes 46 per cent; No 54 per cent.
8. Do you think the City should have a Building Official to enforce zoning, building, housing, electrical, plumbing and fire prevention codes? Yes 55 per cent, No 45 per cent.

In addition 85 per cent of those surveyed listed the City's streets as in fair or good condition, while 14 per cent said they were in poor and one per cent said they were in very good condition.

Forty per cent said they had on occasion called the City to make suggestions or report complaints while 60 per cent said they had never called. The City has a special number for that purpose.

The areas where the survey indicated Circleville citizens showed most concern was water softening and traffic congestion on Nicholas Drive and Route 22 East. The City is moving forward on all of these areas. The report on recommendations on how to proceed with softening the City's water is to be ready by mid June. A tentative deadline of January 1972 for installation has been set.

Through the use of State Issue I bond money, the City has been successful in setting aside a quarter million dollars to improve Nicholas Drive. Council last month passed an ordinance which will finally allow plans to be prepared for this improvement.

With the increased traffic on Route 22 East, the completion of the new Type II state road and street system which makes the City eligible for matching money to improve areas like 22 East. The City's total share for any improvements made on such projects is only five per cent of the total cost or in other words for every $1 the City puts up it gets $20 back.

Continued action on these and other projects continue to improve our City.

NEW YORK (AP) — All those liberated women demanding that men do their fair share of the housework obviously have never seen the male of the species on the scrub line.

Even if the spirit is willing, the flesh is weak. And slow. And inefficient.

Take my friend's situation, for example. She is blessed—or burdened as the case may be—with a cooperative husband.

When she announces it's house-cleaning time, he volunteers to help—after he's finished whatever else he happens to be doing, usually a lengthy endeavor.

Unfortunately his and her ideas of house cleaning differ. She's a "sweep-it-under-the-rug" cleaner. He's an Army-conditioned "not-a-speck of dust" type.

Tops of cabinets, bottoms of tables, backs of bookcases. All must be spotless.

Ignoring specific requests for help—"How about taking out the garbage dear?"—super-spouse begins cleaning by marshaling forces for a major assault on one room—usually the bathroom.

Bank Writes Off $7.7 Million

CINCINNATI (AP) — The First National Bank of Cincinnati Tuesday reported a drop of nearly $7.7 million in the bank's income for the first six months of 1971 "as a result of writing off bad debts."

William N. Liggett, president, said earnings per share for the first six months will be reduced "to a nominal figure," however.

The bank did not name the bad debts but blamed the drop on "a downturn in the economy and a significant credit shortage" starting in the latter part of 1969 and continuing into 1971.

ASHVILLE TRANSFER — Mrs. Thomas Pettibone presents Lawrence Fullen with a plaque honoring him for 33 years of service in the Ashville Schools. Looking on are Russell Gregg, left, and Edwin Irwin, who paid tribute to Fullen's record of sports championships. Fullen will move to Teays Valley High School next fall and assume a teaching and coaching position with eighth graders there under the new extended-day program.

Lawrence Fullen Recognized During Ashville Banquet

Ashville teacher-coach Lawrence Fullen was honored at the school's awards banquet Saturday evening in the school auditorium.

Fullen has worked with students in the Teays Valley District as teacher and athletic coach for 33 years. During that time he has led many winning teams. Among his outstanding achievements, Fullen can claim junior high track teams that have taken titles at the county meet for five of the past six years and basketball teams which have placed first in eight of the past sixteen tournaments, including both 1970 and 1971.

Shortly after coming to TV, Fullen coached the Ashville High School basketball team, taking three county championships from 1942 to 1947. The highlight of his coaching career was in 1945 when his team went all the way to a third place position in state tournament finals.

He has also coached high school track teams and six-man football teams, all with success. Fullen will leave the Ashville School next fall to assume a teaching and coaching position for the eighth grade at the Teays Valley High School.

A former student who went on to a coaching career at Ashville and later Whitehall school, Russell Gregg, was introduced during the ceremonies. Gregg was a member of Fullen's 1945 team who received all-state honors along with a teammate, Richard Messick. Gregg paid tribute to Fullen's coaching skill.

Also given notice at the banquet were seventh and eighth grade band members who earned awards at contests recently. Fullen himself, presented awards to the cheerleaders and members of the football, track and basketball teams.

Principal Orlan Cooper introduced eighth grade honor students who had achieved a grade average of "B" or better for the year. Students with perfect attendance for the year were also honored.

The banquet is an annual affair, sponsored by the Ashville PTA, this year under the direction of Mrs. James Irwin, PTA president, and Mrs. Thomas Pettibone, banquet chairman.

Police Use New Tactics For Riots

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police have been arming themselves with ghetto knowledge rather than automatic weapons since the 1967 race riots, says the chairman of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders, but the underlying causes remain.

Federal Judge Otto Kerner, former Illinois governor, testified Tuesday before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee scheduled to hear today from former Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach, chairman of the Commission on Crime, and Dr. Milton Eisenhower, chairman of the Commission on Violence. The subcommittee is probing for ways to implement reports of such presidential commissions.

Kerner said he has noted marked improvement in police-community relations in some cities, with an emphasis on patrolmen getting to know ghetto residents and their problems, since his panel's study was published three years ago.

"Many cities got rid of their armored cars and automatic weapons after 1968," Kerner said. "There is less of the psychology of coming out with a steel vest."

Kerner said key factors of high unemployment among young blacks and racist attitudes among many whites could trigger new disturbances this summer.

His commission found a 26-per-cent unemployment rate among young blacks in 1967. The Labor Department said the rate last month was 28.4 per cent among blacks between the ages of 16 and 20.

Cinema X Raided By Kentucky Police

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — The Cinema X theater here has been raided for the second time in four months and police have confiscated three films and arrested two persons.

Police Tuesday charged Woodrow Charles Bressler, 56, the projectionist, and Sherman Stephens Jr., 31, of Cincinnati the ticket taker, with showing and possessing obscene movies in violation of the Kentucky obscenity statute. Both were free on $2,500 bond.

Police had raided the theater Jan. 28 and seized films at that time.

Ohio Insurance Chief Studies Irregularities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —

Ohio Insurance Department officials are examining material supplied by a state legislator which allegedly shows that agents of three insurance companies violated state regulations.

Deputy Insurance Director E. E. Eckart said Tuesday night formal hearings will be held if the evidence indicates "an agent has misrepresented or twisted the insurance laws."

Eckart said Rep. Frank Mayfield Jr., R-67 Cincinnati, gave him an envelope containing four tape recordings and "some reading matter." The tapes are purported to be recordings of insurance agents making illegal sales presentations.

Neither Eckart nor Mayfield would identify the companies involved.

Mayfield said Tuesday some 13 or 14 relatively new life insurance companies bilked Ohioans of about $20 million in 1970.

He said the evidence turned over to the insurance department relates to three of the largest firms.

Mayfield said the agents violated state law by asking prospective clients to become one of a limited number of charter contract holders of the new firms.

Prospective clients were asked in return, he said, to provide the names of people who might be interested in buying regular insurance once the firm began selling it.

Legislation passed by the General Assembly last year bans so-called "charter" or "founder" contracts.

Eckart said if formal hearings are called and agents are found guilty of violating the law, their licenses will be revoked. There also is a possibility, he said, that criminal charges could be filed.

Mills Maryland Election Victor

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Republican William O. Mills, a one-time Democrat and staunch backer of President Nixon's domestic and foreign policies, has won the congressional seat in Maryland's largely rural 1st District.

Complete but unofficial returns from the 12-county district Tuesday showed Mills with 31,165 votes to 27,234 for Democratic State Sen. Elroy G. Boyer.

Mills, 46, top aide to former Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton for more than eight years, will assume the seat left vacant when Morton became Secretary of the Interior.

Job Outlook Reported Grim

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Emden C. Schulze, metropolitan area manager here for the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services, says the chances of 1971 high school graduates finding full-time jobs are slimmer than they have been in many years.

"I'm not at all optimistic about job opportunities for these young people," Schulze said Tuesday. "The job market here is still very tight. It's one of the toughest situations I've ever seen."

He estimated that nearly 20,000 high school graduates will be seeking first jobs here.

Nixon Raps Northerners

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, making his first campaign-style trip of the year into the Deep South, has castigated some Northerners for a "double hypocritical standard" on race relations.

Appearing Tuesday in Birmingham and Mobile, Ala., the state that calls itself the "Heart of Dixie," Nixon pictured himself as sympathetic toward the South while having "utter contempt" for racial attitudes of some in the North.

Police estimated at least 160,000 persons turned out to greet Nixon in Alabama's two largest cities. The welcome was as warm as the weather. Hostile chants were insignificantly few. Antiwar placards were far outnumbered by printed ones reading "Win in Vietnam."

Clearly, Nixon and his aides savored what they regarded as a political triumph on the home turf of Gov. George C. Wallace, the President's third-party opponent in 1968 and a potential 1972 foe.

Wallace was on hand in both cities with Nixon—terming the chief executive's presence "a signal honor"—but did not ride with the President in any of the day's motorcades. The White House apparently wanted it that way.

When completed in 1983, Crown Center will provide living and working facilities for 50,000 persons only eight blocks from downtown Kansas City, Mo.

OSU Agriculture Students Training In Pickaway Area

Roger Cramer and Robert Roberts from Ohio State University are working as extension trainees under the supervision of George Hamrick, Pickaway County agricultural agent.

They will be working out of the Pickaway County Extension Office until June 9 as they prepare for a vocation in agricultural education.

OSU Agronomist Is Speaker At Farmers Club

Dr. Larry Shepherd, Extension Agronomist, Ohio State University, was guest speaker at Monday's monthly meeting of the Pickaway County Farmers Club. He discussed the "Situation in the Corn Field."

The primary concerns in this area was the corn leaf blight. This fungus has not shown up in Ohio at all to date. It has been reported in other states. Farmers in the county were encouraged to contact George Hamrick, County Agent, if suspicious plants are noticed.

The only really damage to date in Ohio corn fields has been from flea beetles.

Fugitive Arrested

CINCINNATI (AP) — Leonard Franklin Kent, 40, who had been sought for the rape of a 14-year-old girl in Polk County, Ga., was arrested Tuesday by the FBI on charges of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution. U. S. Magistrate Berton Perlman set bond at $10,000.

Ford Victorious Over Ex-Chief In Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford has achieved a surprisingly decisive victory over former Gov. Bert Combs in Kentucky's Democratic primary for governor and will face Republican Tom Emberton in November.

"The party's going to get together and we're going to win the statehouse," Ford, a 46-year-old Western Kentucky insurance man, said after Combs conceded Tuesday.

But Combs, a 59-year-old former judge, shook his head from side to side when asked what he planned to do about supporting Ford, his onetime chief administrative assistant.

"It's premature to say anything now," he said. "This is the end of the road for me politically."

ASHVILLE TRANSFER — Mrs. Thomas Pettibone presents Lawrence Fullen with a plaque honoring him for 33 years of service in the Ashville Schools. Looking on are Russell Gregg, left, and Edwin Irwin, who paid tribute to Fullen's record of sports championships. Fullen will move to Teays Valley High School next fall and assume a teaching and coaching position with eighth graders there under the new extended-day program.

Lawrence Fullen Recognized During Ashville Banquet

Ashville teacher-coach Lawrence Fullen was honored at the school's awards banquet Saturday evening in the school auditorium.

Fullen has worked with students in the Teays Valley District as teacher and athletic coach for 33 years. During that time he has led many winning teams. Among his outstanding achievements, Fullen can claim junior high track teams that have taken titles at the county meet for five of the past six years and basketball teams which have placed first in eight of the past sixteen tournaments, including both 1970 and 1971.

Shortly after coming to TV, Fullen coached the Ashville High School basketball team, taking three county championships from 1942 to 1947. The highlight of his coaching career was in 1945 when his team went all the way to a third place position in state tournament finals.

He has also coached high school track teams and six-man football teams, all with success.

Fullen will leave the Ashville School next fall to assume a teaching and coaching position for the eighth grade at the Teays Valley High School.

A former student who went on to a coaching career at Ashville and later Whitehall school, Fullen was introduced during the ceremonies. Gregg was a member of Fullen's 1945 team who received all-state honors along with a teammate, Richard Messick. Gregg paid tribute to Fullen's coaching skill.

Also given notice at the banquet were seventh and eighth grade band members who earned awards at contests recently. Fullen himself, presented awards to the cheerleaders and members of the football, track and basketball teams.

Principal Orlan Cooper introduced eighth grade honor students who had achieved a grade average of "B" or better for the year. Students with perfect attendance for the year were also honored.

The banquet is an annual affair, sponsored by the Ashville PTA, this year under the direction of Mrs. James Irwin, PTA president, and Mrs. Thomas Pettibone, banquet chairman.

Dismissal . . .

New York prosecutor who teaches criminal law at Columbia University, said Judge Mulvey's ruling "seemed odd."

"There have been many instances of highly publicized crimes in which it has proved possible, though difficult, to assemble an impartial jury nevertheless," Uviller said in discussing the action with a newsman.

Noting that it took four months to pick a jury for the Seale-Huggins trial, the prosecutor went on: "I don't say he's wrong. The cost to the courts of these protracted trials is very, very grave. Maybe all the system can afford is one trial per customer."

Still, Uviller said, "it's remarkable how quickly people forget what they read and put it out of their minds."

To insist on using only a jury that has never heard of defendants like Jack Ruby, Alice Crimmins, Charles Manson and Bobby Seale, "might mean selecting a jury only of morons and illiterates," he said.

The Supreme Court has been exceptionally protective of defendants' right to a fair trial, unspooled by prejudicial publicity. Last January, it upset a conviction of the Rev. James E. Groppi because his plea to be tried outside Milwaukee, where the alleged crime took place, was rejected.

The best-known ruling along those lines was in 1966 when the court upset the conviction of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard on charges of murdering his pregnant wife. The 8-1 decision said "virulent publicity" in Cleveland had denied him a fair trial.

Judge Mulvey's ruling will never reach the Supreme Court. He denied prosecutor Arnold Markle's motion to appeal to a Connecticut appeals court. "Under Connecticut law the case is dead," Markle told a reporter.

Ohio Insurance Chief Studies Irregularities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Insurance Department officials are examining material supplied by a state legislator which allegedly shows that agents of three insurance companies violated state regulations.

Deputy Insurance Director E. E. Eckart said Tuesday night formal hearings will be held if the evidence indicates "an agent has misrepresented or twisted the insurance laws."

Eckart said Rep. Frank Mayfield Jr., R-67 Cincinnati, gave him an envelope containing four tape recordings and "some reading matter." The tapes are purported to be recordings of insurance agents making illegal sales presentations.

Neither Eckart nor Mayfield would identify the companies involved.

Mayfield said Tuesday some 13 or 14 relatively new life insurance companies bilked Ohioans of about $20 million in 1970.

He said the evidence turned over to the insurance department relates to three of the largest firms.

Mayfield said the agents violated state law by asking prospective clients to become one of a limited number of charter contract holders of the new firms.

Prospective clients were asked in return, he said, to provide the names of people who might be interested in buying regular insurance once the firm began selling it.

Legislation passed by the General Assembly last year bans so-called "charter" or "founder" contracts.

Eckart said if formal hearings are called and agents are found guilty of violating the law, their licenses will be revoked. There also is a possibility, he said, that criminal charges could be filed.

Mills Maryland Election Victor

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Republican William O. Mills, a onetime Democrat and staunch backer of President Nixon's domestic and foreign policies, has won the congressional seat in Maryland's largely rural 1st District.

Complete but unofficial returns from the 12-county district Tuesday showed Mills with 31,165 votes to 27,234 for Democratic State Sen. Elroy G. Boyer.

Mills, 46, top aide to former Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton for more than eight years, will assume the seat left vacant when Morton became Secretary of the Interior.

Job Outlook Reported Grim

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Emden C. Schulze, metropolitan area manager here for the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services, says the chances of 1971 high school graduates finding full-time jobs are slimmer than they have been in many years.

"I'm not at all optimistic about job opportunities for these young people," Schulze said Tuesday. "The job market here is still very tight. It's one of the toughest situations I've ever seen."

He estimated that nearly 20,000 high school graduates will be seeking first jobs here.

USE THE CLASSIFIEDS

Nixon Raps Northerners

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, making his first campaign-style trip of the year into the Deep South, has castigated some Northerners for a "double hypocritical standard" on race relations.

Appearing Tuesday in Birmingham and Mobile, Ala., the state that calls itself the "Heart of Dixie," Nixon pictured himself as sympathetic toward the South while having "utter contempt" for racial attitudes of some in the North.

Police estimated at least 150,000 persons turned out to greet Nixon in Alabama's two largest cities. The welcome was as warm as the weather. Hostile chants were insignificantly few. Antiwar placards were far outnumbered by printed ones reading "Win in Vietnam."

Clearly, Nixon and his aides savored what they regarded as a political triumph on the home turf of Gov. George C. Wallace, the President's third-party opponent in 1968 and a potential 1972 foe.

Wallace was on hand in both cities with Nixon—turning the chief executive's presence "a signal honor"—but did not ride with the President in any of the day's motorcades. The White House apparently wanted it that way.

When completed in 1983, Crown Center will provide living and working facilities for 50,000 persons only eight blocks from downtown Kansas City, Mo.

OSU Agriculture Students Training In Pickaway Area

Roger Cramer and Robert Roberts from Ohio State University are working as extension trainees under the supervision of George Hamrick, Pickaway County agricultural agent.

They will be working out of the Pickaway County Extension Office until June 9 as they prepare for a vocation in agricultural education.

OSU Agronomist Is Speaker At Farmers Club

Dr. Larry Shepherd, Extension Agronomist, Ohio State University, was guest speaker at Monday's monthly meeting of the Pickaway County Farmers Club. He discussed the "Situation in the Corn Field."

The primary concerns in this area was the corn leaf blight. This fungus has not shown up in Ohio at all to date. It has been reported in other states. Farmers in the county were encouraged to contact George Hamrick, County Agent, if suspicious plants are noticed.

The only really damage to date in Ohio corn fields has been from flea beetles.

Fugitive Arrested

CINCINNATI (AP) — Leonard Franklin Kent, 40, who had been sought for the rape of a 14-year-old girl in Polk County, Ga., was arrested Tuesday by the FBI on charges of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution. U. S. Magistrate Berton Perlman set bond at $10,000.

Cramer is presently residing on W. Sixth Ave. near the Ohio State University campus in Columbus. A graduate of Liberty-Benton High School, he

Ford Victorious Over Ex-Chief In Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford has achieved a surprisingly decisive victory over former Gov. Bert Combs in Kentucky's Democratic primary for governor and will face Republican Tom Emberton in November.

"The party's going to get together and we're going to win the statehouse," Ford, a 46-year-old Western Kentucky insurance man, said after Combs conceded Tuesday.

But Combs, a 59-year-old former judge, shook his head from side to side when asked what he planned to do about supporting Ford, his onetime chief administrative assistant.

"It's premature to say anything now," he said. "This is the end of the road for me politically."

Cramer lived with his parents on a 160-acre grain farm near Findlay. During the summer he worked for the Hancock County Highway Department. During the past year, he has worked part-time at the Ohio State meat lab and plans to graduate in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts are presently residing at 263

Georgesville Road in Columbus. Both are graduates of Hilliard High School. Roberts will graduate from Ohio State this August with a B. S. in agriculture. He is presently employed by the Huntington National Bank at 17 S. High Street, Columbus.

Roberts grew up on a small crop farm just south of Hilliard where his parents still reside. Mrs. Roberts is employed by Abex-Denison on Dublin Road, Columbus.

Police Use New Tactics For Riots

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Police have been arming themselves with ghetto knowledge rather than automatic weapons since the 1967 race riots, says the chairman of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders, but the underlying causes remain.

Federal Judge Otto Kerner, former Illinois governor, testified Tuesday before a Senate Judiciary subcommittee scheduled to hear today from former Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach, chairman of the Commission on Crime, and Dr. Milton Eisenhower, chairman of the Commission on Violence. The subcommittee is probing for ways to implement reports of such presidential commissions.

Kerner said he has noted marked improvement in police-community relations in some cities, with an emphasis on patrolmen getting to know ghetto residents and their problems, since his panel's study was published three years ago.

"Many cities got rid of their armored cars and automatic weapons after 1968," Kerner said. "There is less of the psychology of coming out with a steel vest."

Kerner said key factors of high unemployment among young blacks and racist attitudes among many whites could trigger new disturbances this summer.

His commission found a 26-per-cent unemployment rate among young blacks in 1967. The Labor Department said the rate last month was 28.4 per cent among blacks between the ages of 16 and 20.

Cinema X Raided By Kentucky Police

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — The Cinema X theater here has been raided for the second time in four months and police have confiscated three films and arrested two persons.

Police Tuesday charged Woodrow Charles Bressler, 56, the projectionist, and Sherman Stephens Jr., 31, of Cincinnati the ticket taker, with showing and possessing obscene movies in violation of the Kentucky obscenity statute. Both were free on $2,500 bond.

Police had raided the theater Jan. 28 and seized films at that time.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Bus Boy On Wrong Route To Love

DEAR ABBY: I am an airline stewardess, 30 years old, and happily married. I am a very friendly person, but I don't think I am overly friendly. I have been eating with my group at a certain airport restaurant which is very conveniently located and has good food at sensible prices.

During the last few months I noticed a bus boy (not young) being very attentive to me. The others in my group noticed it, too, because they mentioned it. I say hello and smile at all the people who work there the waitresses, cashier, etc., and bus boys, too, but I never gave this one bus boy any reason to get the wrong idea.

Last week, just as I was leaving, this bus boy ran up to me and handed me a letter.

I opened it and it was a love letter, declaring he was "in love" with me, and my eyes told him that I loved him, too!

I haven't been back there since. It's the best restaurant in the airport, but I'm scared to go back. I don't want to get him fired, Abby. How should I handle this?

PUZZLED STEWARDESS

DEAR STEWARDESS: Go back, and pointedly ignore the bus boy. He will get the message. If he makes any more overtures, report him to the manager.

DEAR ABBY: My mother is violently opposed to drinking.

My husband and I keep beer in our refrigerator as we enjoy it occasionally, and so do some of our friends, but we certainly don't overdo it.

My husband agreed not to drink in front of my mother.

The problem is that my mother refuses to come to our house if beer is even in the refrigerator. My husband told me that my mother doesn't have the right to dictate the contents of our refrigerator, and his agreeing not to drink in front of her is as far as he will go. My husband has already taken a lot from my mother, and I'm not sure if I have the right to ask him to back down on this point. So who should be told what?

NAMELESS PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: Your mother should be told that you keep beer in your refrigerator, so if she chooses not to visit you for that reason, you will miss her visits.

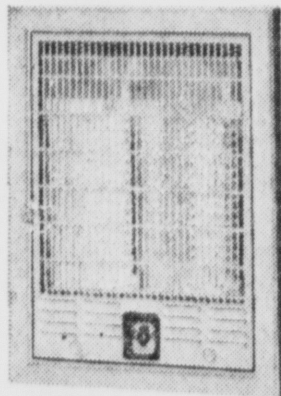

DEAR ABBY: My wife is a substitute teacher. She told me that when the principal telephones her to come to work, he always ends his conversation with, "See you later, baby!" (Or "sweetie or darling.")

The principal is about 35 years old and my wife is 37 and very attractive. She says she is sure the principal means nothing but it, and she's probably

Columbus School Principal Eyes Plan To Halt Violence

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — School Supt. Harold Eibling says he has a plan to end racial troubles that closed Linden McKinley High School again Tuesday.

Eibling told newsmen he would announce details after discussing the plan today with city Safety Director James Hughes and Mayor M. E. Sensenbrenner.

The school remained closed today. About 1,000 children and adults, some carrying Black Nationalist flags, gathered outside the north side school Tuesday night, chanting "burn it down." Extra police were sent to the scene, but the demonstration broke up without arrests or injuries.

Display of the Black Nationalist flag triggered disorders and fist fights at Linden McKinley Tuesday just two hours after classes resumed following shutdown of the school last Thursday over the same issue.

Police arrested 17 persons, including Charles O. Ross, director of the Division of Black Studies at Ohio State University. Thirteen of those arrested were juveniles.

Ross, who is black, was charged with assault and battery of a police officer, failing to depart and trespassing. He was released on $5,500 bond.

Other adults arrested and released on bond were Wesley Greenfield, school custodian, charged with obscene language and failure to depart; David L. Paige, home-school community agent, assault and battery on police, and Albert J. Bryan, improper language and disorderly conduct.

Charges against the 16 juveniles ranged from carrying concealed weapons and assault and battery on police to resisting arrest and disorderly conduct. About 70 per cent of the 1,700 students at Linden McKinley are black.

Troubles began last week over the efforts of some black students to fly the Black Nationalist flag at the school. After Thursday's disorders, Eibling ruled that only the American flag is to be flown at Columbus schools.

Tuesday morning some students went into the auditorium and put the red, green and black flag on the stage.

Youth Admits Setting '68 Blaze; 28 Horses Killed

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Chief Ralph E. Dyke of the Kirtland Volunteer Fire Department says an 18-year-old Kirtland Township youth has admitted starting a fire at the Dorchester Farms three years ago that killed 28 race and show horses worth $250,000.

Dyke said Tuesday that the youth was arrested Monday night in a car theft investigation and while being questioned by him and Kirtland Police Chief Edward Minor the youth waived his right to a lawyer and admitted starting the fire.

The fire chief said the youth told him and Minor that he was working at the stables as a handyman at the time of the fire in May, 1968, and that he started it by deliberately throwing a lighted cigarette into a pile of hay.

Dyke said the youth had been a suspect since he was arrested in September, 1968, for setting fire to three garages. He said the youth was caught then setting fire to the garage at his home and admitted starting two other garage fires, but no charges were filed against him because he made restitution to the owners. Total damage in the three fires was about $700.

The chief said the youth was questioned about the Dorchester Farms fire at the time of his arrest, but he denied starting it.

Minor said the youth also admitted during questioning Tuesday that he started two other garage fires and a minor house fire. All the fires, including the stable fire, were within a quarter mile of the youth's home, the chief said.

Minor said he would go to Lake County juvenile authorities today for a ruling on whether the youth—who is being held in the county jail without bond—should be charged as an adult or a juvenile. He was 15 at the time of the Dorchester Farms fire.

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — Washington County Coroner Kenneth Owen has issued a tentative verdict of murder-suicide in the shooting deaths of William King, 85, and Oma Joe.

The bodies of the man and woman were found in separate rooms of an apartment building in which they lived. Police said a revolver was in King's hand. No motive has been established.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Bus Boy On Wrong Route To Love

DEAR ABBY: I am an airline stewardess, 30 years old, and happily married. I am a very friendly person, but I don't think I am overly friendly. I have been eating with my group at a certain airport restaurant which is very conveniently located and has good food at sensible prices.

During the last few months I noticed a bus boy (not young) being very attentive to me. The others in my group noticed it, too, because they mentioned it. I say hello and smile at all the people who work there: the waitresses, cashier, etc., and bus boys, too, but I never gave this one bus boy any reason to get the wrong idea.

Last week, just as I was leaving, this bus boy ran up to me and handed me a letter. I opened it and it was a love letter, declaring he was "in love" with me, and my eyes told him that I loved him, too!

I haven't been back there since. It's the best restaurant in the airport, but I'm scared to go back. I don't want to get him fired. Abby, how should I handle this?

PUZZLED STEWARDESS
DEAR STEWARDESS: Go back, and pointedly ignore the bus boy. He will get the message. If he makes any more overtures, report him to the manager.

DEAR ABBY: My mother is violently opposed to drinking. My husband and I keep beer in our refrigerator as we enjoy it occasionally, and so do some of our friends, but we certainly don't overdo it.

My husband agreed not to drink in front of my mother.

The problem is that my mother refuses to come to our house if beer is even in the refrigerator. My husband told me that my mother doesn't have the right to dictate the contents of our refrigerator, and his agreeing not to drink in front of her is as far as he will go. My husband has already taken a lot from my mother, and I'm not sure if I have the right to ask him to back down on this point. So who should be told what?

NAMELESS PLEASE
DEAR NAMELESS: Your mother should be told that you keep beer in your refrigerator, so if she chooses not to visit you for that reason, you will miss her visits.

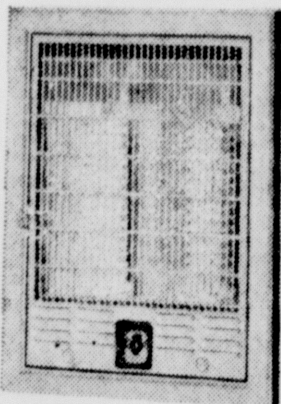

DEAR ABBY: My wife is a substitute teacher. She told me that when the principal telephones her to come to work, he always ends his conversation with, "See you later, baby!" (Or "sweetie or darling.")

The principal is about 35 years old and my wife is 37 and very attractive. She says she is sure the principal means nothing but it, and she's probably

Pickaway SCS Conservationist Receives Award

A Special Achievement Award was received Monday by Donald Archer, district conservationist, with the U.S. Soil Conservation Service for his work in conservation and environmental improvement beyond the normal requirements of his job.

The SCS presented 49 individual awards at its first annual statewide honor awards ceremony May 24 in Columbus, according to Robert E. Quilliam, State Conservationist for the SCS in Ohio.

All awards recipients have shown an exceptional desire to promote conservation of our natural resources and interest others in work of environmental improvement, Quilliam noted.

Over 130 people attended the ceremony including Mr. and Mrs. Donald Archer, 220 Sunset Drive.

Cash awards, certificates, or lapel pins were presented to the employees in token of their various exemplary activities.

Solons Nix Government College Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Nixon administration plan to aid the nation's colleges has been dismissed by key House sponsors of education legislation who prefer programs of their own.

The administration proposal, the product of long internal debate, would provide grants to colleges based on the amount of federal aid their students are receiving.

"It's a ridiculous approach," Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., ranking Republican on the House Education and Labor Committee said Tuesday. Rep. Edith Green, R-Ore., chairman of the House education subcommittee agreed.

Mrs. Green and Quie are pushing rival plans for channeling federal funds directly to the colleges, an approach firmly opposed by the administration until now.

Just last month James B. Cardwell, assistant and comptroller of HEW, said direct federal subsidies for colleges could perpetuate bad management, delay needed educational reforms, dry up other sources of aid and result in colleges getting used to living beyond their means.

Dill and sweet pickles and pickle relish in clear plastic bottles were featured at the 78th annual Pickle Packers International meeting.

Taft To Become Nixon Standin?

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Robert Taft Jr., asked at a Republican fund-raising dinner here Tuesday night about reports he will be the Ohio GOP favorite son candidate for President in 1972, said:

"You wouldn't want me to scoop my own press conference would you?"

Taft has scheduled a news conference in Columbus Thursday morning. There has been speculation he will announce at that time his plans to serve as President Nixon's standin in the Ohio primary.

Cellar A Dead-Letter Office For POW Pleas prisoners held by Hanoi.

Emile Jean Coustie, director of the moving company which owns the cellar, was astonished to find the check in a letter opened at random. He estimated that more than three million letters and petitions were in his cellar, most of them in unopened envelopes.

"I couldn't possibly afford to have anyone search through all these letters," he said.

Coustie's warehouse in Pantin, a crumbling working-class district north of Paris, has become the main collecting point for the appeals brought or sent to Paris, usually addressed to the North Vietnamese delegation at the peace talks. The delegation systematically refuses to accept the appeals, and they usually end up in the Pantin cellar.

"It's becoming a bigger thing than I bargained for," Coustie said.

He first got involved with the appeals last year, when a group of Americans tried to dump several crates filled with petitions at the North Vietnamese delegation.

The French police guarding the building threatened to arrest the Americans for littering the sidewalk. They had no alternative but to load the crates back on their truck.

"At first, it was just bags and crates brought in by some group or other," Coustie said.

"But now I am getting hundreds of letters from individual Americans, simply addressed to me as though I were an intermediary for dealing with the North Vietnamese."

Connie Smades, Duncanville, Tex., wrote to chief Hanoi delegate Xuan Thuy to demand better treatment for the prisoners. The Hanoi delegation returned her letter unopened. She then put it in a new envelope and forwarded it to Coustie. It now lies on the cellar floor.

"It's got so that I simply dump all the letters that come to me from the United States down here," Coustie said. "I just don't have the time to open them."

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Following is the Ohio weather summary from the National Weather Service.

You can't live on love forever.

Okay, you're young. You've got all the love in the world and you're doing your best to live on it. Retirement? That's for when you're old, right?

It's for when you're old if you can afford it.

The kind of retirement you're after isn't the typical rocking-away-on-the-front-porch variety. You probably picture yourself taking extended vacations, pursuing hobbies, or buying that forty acres and living off the land. Pipe dreams? Not if you prepare now.

There's an easy, painless way to make your retirement dreams a reality. Join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. That way, an amount you specify will be set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's an easy way to save.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Now is the time to start saving. Money's a nice thing to have while you're living on love forever.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a good way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Ichord Powerful As Panel Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Accidents of alphabet and origin place a lawyer named Ichord from Licking, Mo., somewhere in the middle of both the roll of the House and the America it represents.

But Richard Howard Ichord is No. 1 when he presides over a House committee born 33 years ago today.

He sits in the head chair on the House Internal Security Committee, known in its original incarnation as the Un-American Activities Committee—seeker of subversives, condemner of Communists.

He retains that seat by being a Democrat, party of majority at the moment, and by expressing a conservative philosophy appealing to enough voters in his rural Missouri district to return to Washington every two years.

When he takes the floor, he charges, the press generally pays no heed.

But on his forum as chairman of one of the House's three permanent investigating panels, Ichord gets total coverage—extra press table for overflow crowds, battery of television and radio gear, packed hearing room, witnesses under oath.

An April 6 House speech—titled "Plans of Militant Antiwar Groups to Launch Massive Demonstrations in Washington, D.C., April 24 to May 5, 1971, Responsible Dissent or Communist-Inspired Propaganda?"—and last week's public hearings aimed at the same subject.

"This is one of the things that concerns me about this whole matter," Ichord said in an interview. He is concerned the speech "received little attention in the nation's press, not at all on the East Coast . . . Whenever the committee takes some action that might appear to be adverse to the objective of the rings off the hook from you fellows in the press . . .

"And I think that's what happened in this respect, it received no publicity at all until the National Peace Action Coalition called a press conference for the purpose of denying the allegations that I made in the speech."

The National Coalition and the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice, which joined with the Mayday Collective as sponsors of antiwar protests here in late April and early May, are targets as Ichord's panel investigates alleged subversive influence among leaders of peace groups.

The panel took four days of testimony last week, set more for next month, and Ichord said—in light of evidence at the hearings—his April 6 speech was "the understatement of the year."

Charles A. Albright, a driver for Central Ohio Coal Co. of Cumberland, Ohio, was cited for driving a loaded coal hauler over a steep embankment to avoid colliding with a pickup truck containing a couple and two children. Albright escaped serious injury.

USE THE CLASSIFIEDS

CINCINNATI (AP) — Forty police Tuesday night made a sweep of six locations, including the plush Carrousel Hotel and Good Samaritan Hospital, and arrested nine persons on drug charges signed by a Cincinnati police officer working undercover.

Arrests were made at the Circus Lounge in the lower Clifton area, two homes in the Walnut Hills area and one in Winton Terrace.

The names of the persons arrested and charges against them were not immediately released. The undercover officer was not named.

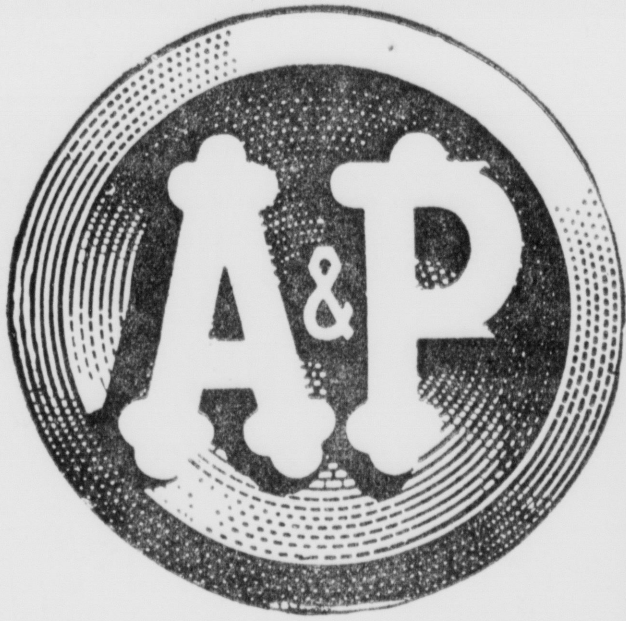

The first daughter of a president married in the White House was Maria Hester Monroe. In 1920 she wed Samuel Gouverneur, her cousin and President James Monroe's secretary.

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS's "60 Minutes" usually manages to have an off-beat picture story in its bi-weekly program. Tuesday night it was a report on the little understood tanker business and the owners who, if calculated risks work out, make huge profits hauling oil around the world.

The pictures of the mammoth tankers were impressive, and Mike Wallace's commentary on the business intriguing.

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS's "60 Minutes" usually manages to have an off-beat picture story in its bi-weekly program. Tuesday night it was a report on the little understood tanker business and the owners who, if calculated risks work out, make huge profits hauling oil around the world.

The pictures of the mammoth tankers were impressive, and Mike Wallace's commentary on the business intriguing.

There was also an impressive introduction of a new face on the antiwar scene, former Navy Lt. John Kerry. He is the 27-year-old Yale man who recently made a big impression on Washington with his impassioned testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and as organizer of a demonstration in which disabled veterans of Vietnam threw away their medals in protest against the continuation of the war. Kerry, who hinted at political ambitions, said frankly the medal-throwing was a device to attract coverage by the electronic media.

The program wound up with an interview with former presidential candidate Eugene McCarthy. He spoke of his interest in a third political party, but maintained firmly that he has not decided whether to try for the presidency again in 1972.

The program may get a little out of balance with its interest in national politics and war, but it is still a very bright spot in the schedule.

Public broadcasting stations which seem to be just as interested in pumping out fresh programs in warm weather as in cold, are a particular boon to the bored viewer these nights.

There are a number of programs, not always carried as network broadcasts, that circulate among the educational stations and deserve more attention than they get. One, in particular, is Robert Cromie's "Book beat."

Cromie, book critic for a Chicago and a Washington newspaper, is one television interviewer who really reads his guests' books. His style is easy, literate and brings out the best even in nervous authors.

On a recent program, Cromie was discussing "Defending the Environment" with its author, Prof. Joseph N. Sax of the University of Michigan law school. The book was a report on legal action by citizens groups and others in efforts to protect and preserve areas of land, sea-shore and water as part of the public trust. A dull subject? Not at all under the gentle prodding from Cromie. Sax told details of one fascinating case after another.

It was a solid half hour of good talk and altogether refreshing.

Open House Planned For June Grad

LARRY TIPTON

An open house reception will be held for Larry E. Tipton honoring his graduation June 9 from Lancaster High School.

Larry is a former resident of Circleville where he attended school at Corwin Elementary and the junior high.

The open house will be held June 6 at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Samuel W. Nicholas Sr., 204 Wyandotte, in Lancaster, from 3 to 5 p.m. Any former classmates of the graduate are invited. Those planning to attend are asked to notify his family.

Larry is the son of Mrs. Margaret E. Tipton.

NFO Prexy Issues Debate Challenge

National Farmers Organization vice president, Erhard Pfingsten has given Rep. David Martin (R-Neb.) until June 1 to select the time and place for a public debate in their dispute about statements concerning low farm prices and removing farmers from agriculture, according to Tom Conrad, New Holland, a national officer.

"If you do not pick a time and a place by June 1, 1971," Pfingsten said in a telegram to Martin, "I will ask the NFO congressional district chairman in your district to do so within 30 days following June 1."

Martin attacked Pfingsten late in April in his weekly column sent from Washington. He accused the NFO official of misrepresenting farm policy statements of Dr. Hendrik S. Houthakker of the Council of Economic Advisers.

In replying to Martin, Pfingsten accused the congressman of "covering up the fact we have disastrous conditions in agriculture in Nebraska and throughout the country and that he has done absolutely nothing to help the farmer."

Pfingsten has been critical of Houthakker's powerful role in farm policy decisions at the White House. He quotes Houthakker as saying the Agriculture Department's assignment is eliminating human resources from agriculture, that this must be done through low farm prices, and that corporations will take over ownership of agriculture and supply its management.

"I suggest you bring Dr. Houthakker with you (to the debate)," Pfingsten told Martin in the wire.

"I will have with me the witnesses who were present when Dr. Houthakker made his statements concerning agriculture which I have accurately quoted over the country and which you have misquoted," for questions and answers.

Debate conditions proposed in Pfingsten's wire included giving Martin the choice of time and place — provided people in the district are given five days notice. He also proposed a 40-minute presentation for each, followed by an unlimited period for questions and answers.

Pfingsten said he had a busy schedule and realized that Martin did, too.

"But since you raised the issue I will cancel any of my speaking engagements to meet you and I know that your constituents will expect you to do the same," he said, "because low farm income is of great concern to the farmers and rural businessmen in your district."

Political Loans Outlawed By Bank

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP) — Franklin National Bank has discontinued the practice of lending money to political organizations.

No more loans will be made until the Justice Dept. clarifies the Federal Corrupt Practices Act, said a bank official.

"We would not have made the (1970) loans (totaling $165,000) if we did not think that we would get the money back," said bank president Harold Gleason. "The loans were unrelated to politics."

HUD Chief Urges Local Decisions

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)— Housing and Urban Development Secretary George W. Romney said here Tuesday night that people are losing confidence in government because its centralized structure is not achieving the results citizens have a right to expect.

Romney said he is convinced that "if decision-making is shifted from the federal to the local level, we will get better results."

Romney made the pitch for President Nixon's revenue sharing proposal at a Montgomery County Republican fund-raising dinner. He received a warm response from an audience of about 800 people.

"Let's let the governors and mayors decide how the money should be spent, because they are closest to the problems," Romney said.

"Generally speaking, there's no special wisdom in Washington — people are just as smart here in Dayton and in Columbus."

Romney said Nixon's plans to cut complicated and duplicating grant-in-aid programs now used to return tax dollars to local governments and his proposed cabinet reforms constitute the "New American Revolution."

"I hope you will join the President in seeking the reforms for this New American Revolution," Romney said, "and return power to the people."

He said the reforms would enable people to know "who is responsible for what."

Cancer Hormone Use Allowed By FDA, Claim

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is violating federal law by allowing residues of a cancer-inducing hormone to reach consumers. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., charged today.

Proxmire urged an immediate ban on the artificial hormone DES, known to cause cancer in laboratory animals, and to the beginning cancers in man, in the fattening of cattle.

Based on Department of Agriculture sample checks, the senator said it is safe to estimate between 100,000 and 150,000 head of cattle containing residues of the hormone were slaughtered last year.

J. Edgar Won't Quit FBI Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover has denied reports he suffers from indigestion—"unless I read certain columnists"—and says he will not retire as long as he's healthy.

The 76-year-old FBI mentor made a rare public appearance Monday night to honor the wife of Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell as the American Newspaper Women's Club's headliner of the year.

Both Hoover and Martha Mitchell have gained attention in connection with communications and the centerpiece of the head table was an old fashioned telephone.

Mrs. Mitchell is famed for late night calls to espouse her political views while Hoover recently has been under fire by some congressmen who claim the FBI is tapping their conversations.

The FBI has denied the accusations.

Asked if he had plans to retire, the trim-looking Hoover replied: "None whatsoever; not as long as I'm healthy."

The attorney general, hovering close to Hoover, interjected himself at this point to head off the retirement question but Hoover quietly answered it.

Hoover denied claims by syndicated columnist Jack Anderson that the director must have stomach ailments because of medications they found in his trash cans.

"I do not have health or gastric problems," Hoover said, "except when I read a certain man's column."

Mrs. Mitchell had her turn, too, laughingly saying: "It's my pleasure to remind the audience that if you see one FBI director, you've seen 'em all.'"

Junior Officers Find New Army Attitudes Discouraging

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

"The fortunes of our fighting forces," the general said, "are directly related to the esteem the public has for them."

Maj. Gen. Harrison Hollis, personnel chief for the U.S. Army in Europe, stood at the window of his Heidelberg office watching a winter day die on the parade grounds. "Lord knows, we've had our scandals and our mediocrities, but we've had our heroes, too. Thousands of them. Dedicated men. Not that the public gives a damn anymore."

The general didn't call the roll, but you could almost see them parading by in the deepening dusk, the scandals and the heroes. Calley. My Lai. Roger Donlon, the Green Beret who won the first Medal of Honor in Vietnam. The colonel with the 400 message parlor girls at Long Binh. Capt. Bill Carpenter, West Point's lone, some end calling the napalm down on himself at Dak To.

Like being in the French army after Dien Bien Phu and Algeria, these are tough times for the officer corps. War winding down, Congress cutting back. People weary of the burden and the slaughter. Dissident voices crying, "Peace, peace," but violence everywhere: fraggings, hard drugs, racial tension. Discipline eroding in the boredom and Mickey Mouse of garrison life.

As military men are fond of doing these days, with everyone trying to tell them their business, Hollis quoted Gen. George C. Marshall's famous warning to Congress when the fortunes of the forces began to fall after World War II:

"You cannot have a political club and call it an army. Leave training and discipline to us. An undisciplined army is not only impotent; it is a menace to the state."

The essential difference now is that people seem to be turning cold while the guns are still smoking.

Products of a simpler time, both Gens. Douglas MacArthur and Omar Bradley said in their memoirs their happiest days in uniform were spent as the CO, the commanding officer, of a rifle company. That first command represented all their boyhood dreams of glory, the last link in the chain of command when you knew the first names of all the men you were asking to do or die.

Career officers, the professionals, realize the world has changed a lot since then. The CO is still a hero figure among today's youth, they tell you resentfully, but the initials stand for "conscientious objector." And glory now is getting your head cracked by a Chicago cop, not for getting zapped for your country in a Vietnam rice paddy.

"Young captains still want to command companies, but a lot get discouraged early. They want to move on and avoid the problems with race and drugs and discipline. Still, those who do find the magic, we manage to retain. Unfortunately not enough of them," said Col. John Duddy, an infantry veteran from Vietnam who is deputy commander of the 1st Infantry Division Forward at Augsburg, Germany.

Professionals who find the magic, as Duddy called it, come to realize there is a lot of conformity behind the mod soldier's antiestablishment stance, a lot of bowing to the peer pressures of the peace marches and moratoriums back home.

The new, relaxed discipline and the five-day week have made military life easier for the enlisted man. The new troubles generated by racial tension and drug abuse have made life much more difficult for the officer, especially the junior officer. He spends a lot of time seeing to it that the acid freaks and the militants don't hurt themselves or someone else or maybe blow the base apart.

After hours, the officer of the day used to nap on a cot in the orderly room. Now, in many military installations around the globe, he's out looking for trouble, listening for the hand grenades that go bang in the night. At Fulda, Germany, the O.D. has to climb into every Jeep, truck and tank of the big armored cavalry unit stationed near the East German border making sure the vehicles are locked. In a Kafkaesque scene, a guard walks the perimeter fence of the ammunition dump whose gates are locked against him.

"Guards are our biggest problem," said Lt. Robert Clarke of Boston.

Stranger things have happened. At Bad Kissenger, a private staged a one-man demonstration against "lousy conditions" by swiping a self-propelled howitzer and pointing it at battalion headquarters. He fell asleep before anything happened, but at Baumholder another protester crawled into a tank and fired the turret gun at an empty building.

Big Red One officers, many of them just back from Vietnam, spend their nights riding "rat patrol" in Jeeps on the lookout for racial turmoil in the Augsburg area.

The drug culture calls for a new kind of awareness that only now the officer candidate schools are getting around to recognizing. The junior officer interested in the welfare of his men has to be alert for the telltale signs of drug use: the hacking cough of the opium smoker, the glassy stare and giddy giggle of the kid stoned on pot, the drowning sensation of the acid freak, the paranoid whine of the heroin mainliner.

Officers almost everywhere agree that a major drawback to solving the race problem is the shortage of black officers. The Army, which has been a leader in integrating the services since 1948, finds itself today with more black colonels (755) than black second lieutenants (332); more black majors (1,193) and captains (1,628) than black first lieutenants (734). Though ROTC programs have been inaugurated at a number of Negro colleges, the situation will not improve anytime soon. Last year West Point graduated only 39 black cadets.

Black officers, to a lesser extent than black NCOs, have their problems with militants demanding special treatment and rebuking them as Uncle Toms.

Despite the pervasiveness of racial incidents and deaths from drug abuse, many officers think a breakthrough has been made toward a solution for unrest in the ranks in the past seven months.

Lt. Gen. Michael Davison, the new commander in Europe who formerly had the Field Forces II combat command in Vietnam, is convinced "more is done in the military to give the black man equal opportunity and fair treatment than is done in our society at large."

Many officers blame the decline in discipline on the short tour and quick promotions in Vietnam, coupled with constantly changing high level strategy on how best to win the war and placate the critics back home.

In discussing the future of their profession and why they stick with it, most career officers talk little about Vietnam or tend to look beyond it.

Navy men see their service as rapidly becoming the most important, with the United States moving more and more toward nuclear missile launching ships and submarines as it loses its bases around the world. Air Force men, carefully noting the vulnerability of the helicopter in Laos, see themselves taking over the lion's share of the defense budget from the Army again. The Marines, who aren't buying the new fangled discipline, seem to be convinced that kids who really want a military career will choose a tough, demanding service that puts the emphasis on physical fitness and obedience.

The Will Rogers Shrine of the Sun, built in memory of the American humorist by his friend Spencer Penrose, overlooks Colorado Springs from Cheyenne Mountain.

TIME MARCHES ON—When the first Indianapolis 500-mile race was held in 1911 (lower photo) the winner's time was 74.59 miles per hour, with Ray Harroun driving a Marmon. The 1971 event, the 55th in the series, comes up Saturday, May 29, with qualifying times indicating a new modern record. The present mark is 156.867 miles per hour, set by Mario Andretti in the 1969 race. No war year races.

Mahler Becomes A Hero, Even If Bumped From 500

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — John Mahler, the most publicized rookie driver in Indianapolis, wants it known that he isn't mad at the man who took him out of Saturday's $1 million auto race.

"I didn't have a ride when I came up here and I don't have one now," said the 36-year-old Mahler, of Bettendorf, Iowa. "Yet, it has been the best thing that has happened to me."

Mahler qualified a car owned by Salt Lake City businessman-driver Dick Simon at 170.164 m.p.h. — the fastest four-lap speed ever turned by a first year man at Indianapolis Motor Speedway. He would have started 27th in the field.

But Simon, who had been bumped from the field in his own car, announced Monday that he was taking over Mahler's car for the race and, under the rules, would start it in 33rd, or last position.

Simon, who finished 14th last year in his only Indianapolis 500 start, said contractual obligations with his sponsor, the Travelodge chain of motels, forced him to remove Mahler. The episode quickly made Simon the villain and Mahler the hero in a swirling controversy among racing personnel and fans alike. Mahler admitted Tuesday "it made me a somebody after coming here as a nobody."

Simon, an insurance executive in private life, said the Travelodge people provided him with a backup car—the one Mahler qualified — and that terms of his contract called for him to drive the car if it raced.

"Dick can only be looked on in the role of villain if the people see me as the persecuted," Mahler said.

"I don't want it that way. Actually, I'm indebted to Dick. He gave me a chance to pass my rookie test in the car, and it was only after he qualified his own car that I got the chance to qualify the second car. It is unfortunate that he was bumped from the lineup by a faster car."

A sports car driver since 1959, Mahler said the attention he had gained by being ousted from the world's richest race had opened up the future for him.

Simon and the 33 other drivers who will start the race at 11 a.m. Saturday got their last chance to tour the speedway today when they participated in carburetor runs. The tests, to check fuel consumption and tire wear, were to begin at 11 a.m. and last for three hours.

The speedway was to be opened to spectators for the tests—for the first time ever.

May Notes 20th; Dodgers Lose Tilt, 9-1

Associated Press Sports Writer
The Los Angeles Dodgers helped Willie Mays celebrate his 20 years in the big leagues with a barrage of birthday cakes . . . but couldn't cut it against Juan Marichal as usual.

Mays was rewarded with 20 cakes prior to the San Francisco-Los Angeles contest Tuesday night at Dodger Stadium, then Marichal went out and starved the Dodgers on seven hits in a 9-1 Giants romp. Marichal, who pitched a 1-0 beauty against Los Angeles at Candlestick Park on May 15, said he received letters from Dodger fans saying the wind was the only reason he won there.

Elsewhere in the National League, the New York Mets trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies 5-4 in 12 innings; the Houston Astros stopped the San Diego Padres 3-2; the Montreal Expos edged the Atlanta Braves 3-2; the St. Louis Cardinals bounced the Chicago

Cubs 4-2 and the Cincinnati Reds turned back the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-4. Marichal, who has a history of pitching his best against the Dodger aces, beat Bill Singer for the second time in two weeks. Bullet Bill, blasted out by a six-run sixth inning that included a three-run homer by Marichal, is off to the worst start of his career with a 2-9 record. Los Angeles Manager Walter Alston said he still has no intention of taking him out of the

Joe Gibbon Helps Cincy To 7-4 Win Over Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Joe Gibbon got the biggest pay raise of his baseball career last year from the Pittsburgh Pirates. But the 36-year-old left-hander posted only a 0-1 record in 41 relief appearances, had arm trouble and finished with a 4.83 earned run average.

So the Pirates released him after the season and Cincinnati invited him to spring training where he made the club but took his first pay cut ever.

Gibbon picked up his third consecutive save, and fourth of the season, Tuesday night after entering the game with two Pirates on base and none out, then holding his former teammates to no runs. The Reds won 7-4.

Pitching Coach Larry Shepard was instrumental in Gibbons' signing with the Reds. The former Pirate manager says he knew Gibbon still had some stuff left.

"We've changed two things in Gibby," said Shepard. "First his stride. It was choking him off. He could never throw a good curve. Now he's throwing a good curve and slider for the first time in a long while."

"And we changed his delivery on the fork ball."

Manager Sparky Anderson said there were doubts about keeping Gibbon on in spring training.

"He was throwing real good but he was getting hit real hard," Anderson said. "But Shep said he was throwing better than he had seen him in five years."

Gibbon, who has now given up only one hit in the last 8 1/3 innings, shows no animosity toward the Pirates for releasing him.

Bud Hritz Takes Honors at PCC

Bud Hritz fired a two over par 38 to capture low gross honors in the Pickaway County Club Men's League Tuesday. Gerry Ayers had a 31 to take low net.

Team No. 6 comprised of Jack Hutchinson, Larry McFadden, Wayne Evans, Lloyd Kittle, Lew Taylor, Bob Roemer, Joe Smith and Neil Hamilton took team honors.

Team No. 6 leads the league with 47 points, Team No. 2 is second with 45 1/2 and Team No. 7 has 44 points for third.

Baxter Is Medalist In Open Qualifier

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Rex Baxter of Cleveland took medalist honors in the sectional qualifier here for the U.S. Open golf tournament, which was completed Tuesday after being interrupted by thunderstorms late Monday.

Tiger Athletes Honored At Spring Sports Fete

Members of the Circleville High School track, baseball and golf teams were honored at a spring sports banquet sponsored by the Circleville Athletic Booster Club Tuesday at the high school.

John Valentine, former Circleville star athlete, was the main speaker for the event. Valentine is now assistant football coach at Ashland College.

Most valuable player awards went to Bill McGowan, track;

Mike Fuller, baseball; and Greg Williams, golf.

Dennis Shaw, president of the Stooze Club, presented all-league awards to members of the track squad. Honored were Steve Richards, two-mile run; John Hunt, 120-yard high hurdles and high jump; Bill McGowan, 880 run; Tom Frericks, shot and discus; mile relay team, Gary Robbins, Dick Radcliff, Rich Sepakman and Joe McGowan; and the 880 relay squad, Rich Speakman, Tom Shea, Iain Griffey and Gary Spangler.

THE SOUTH Central Ohio League baseball team will be selected Thursday by the league coaches.

Coach Jim Lint handled the introduction and presentation of awards to the track team. Coach Danny Fouts performed the honors for the members of the baseball team and coach Steve Brudzinski made the presentation of the golf squad.

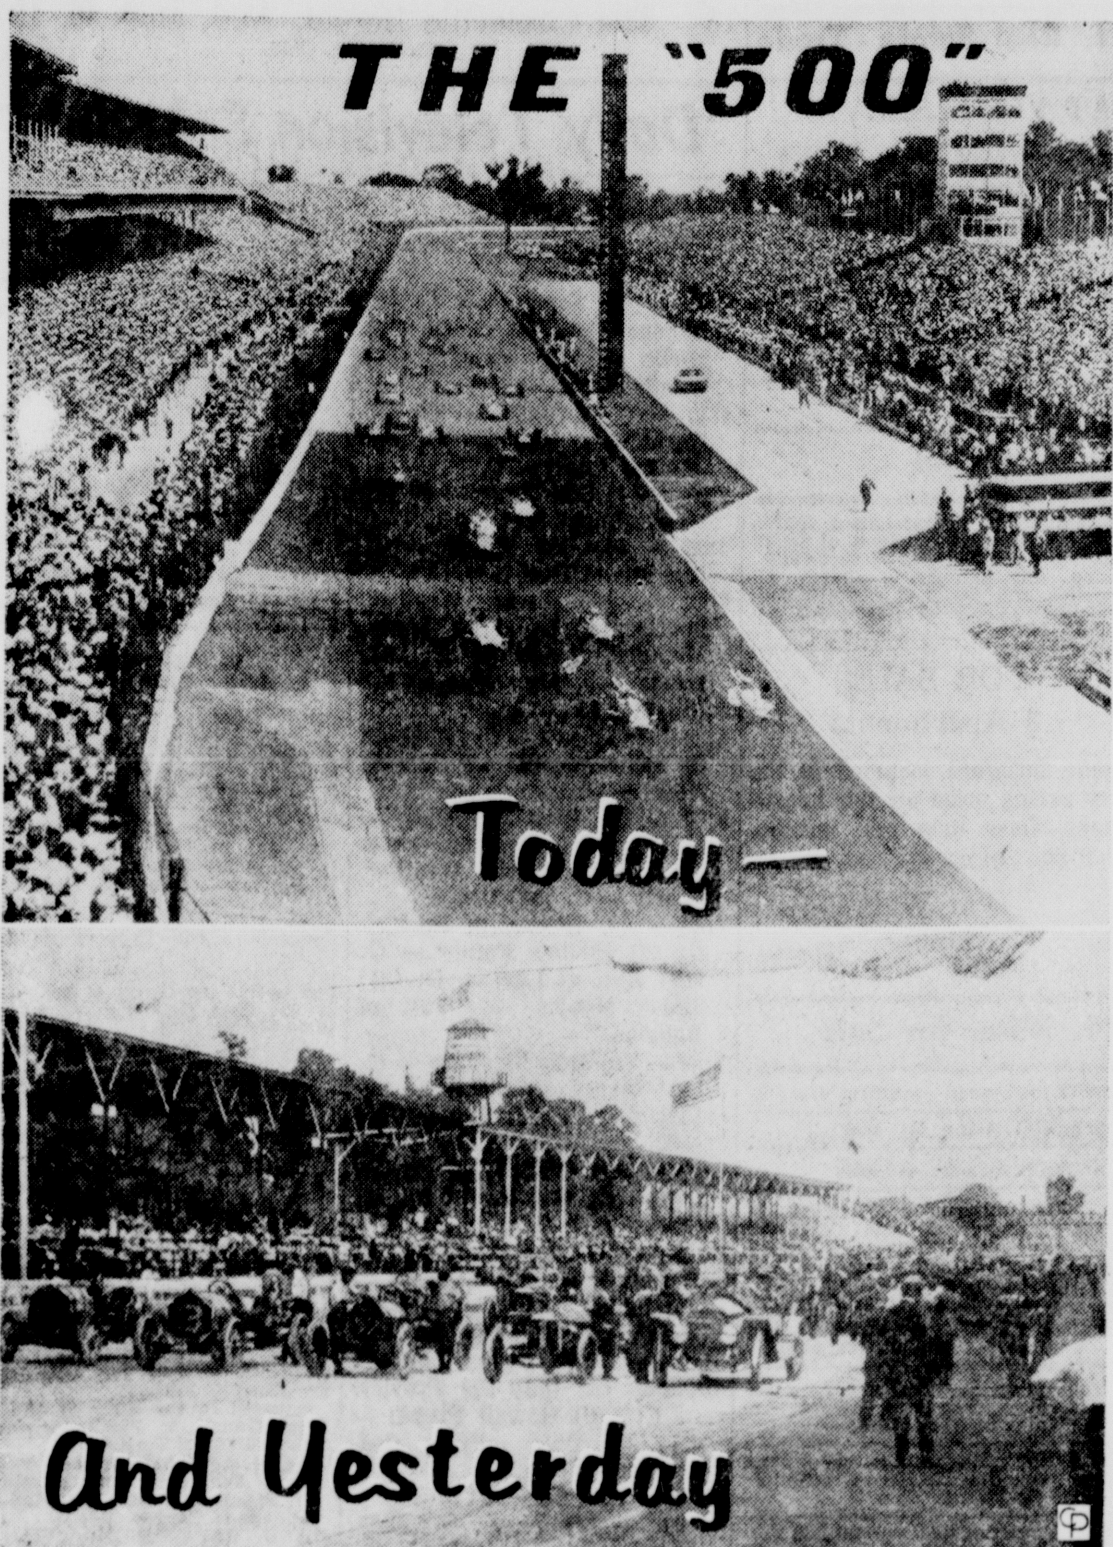

Valentine participated in three sports for the Tigers, football, baseball and basketball, and was a member of eight championship teams. He played three years of football at Bowling Green University before going into the coaching field.

He was head coach at Mansfield Madison High School for four years and has been assistant coach at Ashland College for six years.

Valentine told the young athletes fundamentals learned on the athletic fields prepare them for the game of life. He expounded the theory that an athlete must set goals for himself if he is going to be a success and must have goals to achieve if he is going to be successful in the game of life.

Ed Webb, president of the Booster Club, performed the duties of master of ceremonies and Pastor Carl Zehner handled the invocation and benediction.

TIME MARCHES ON—When the first Indianapolis 500-mile race was held in 1911 (lower photo) the winner's time was 74.59 miles per hour, with Ray Harroun driving a Marmon. The 1971 event, the 55th in the series, comes up Saturday, May 29, with qualifying times indicating a new modern record. The present mark is 156.867 miles per hour, set by Mario Andretti in the 1969 race. No war year races.

Mahler Becomes A Hero, Even If Bumped From 500

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — John Mahler, the most publicized rookie driver in Indianapolis, wants it known that he isn't mad at the man who took him out of Saturday's $1 million auto race.

"I didn't have a ride when I came up here and I don't have one now," said the 36-year-old Mahler, of Bettendorf, Iowa. "Yet, it has been the best thing that has happened to me."

Mahler qualified a car owned by Salt Lake City businessman-driver Dick Simon at 170.164 m.p.h. — the fastest four-lap speed ever turned by a first year man at Indianapolis Motor Speedway. He would have started 27th in the field.

But Simon, who had been bumped from the field in his own car, announced Monday that he was taking over Mahler's car for the race and, under the rules, would start in 33rd, or last position.

Simon, who finished 14th last year in his only Indianapolis 500 start, said contractual obligations with his sponsor, the Travelodge chain of motels, forced him to remove Mahler. The episode quickly made Simon the villain and Mahler the hero in a swirling controversy among racing personnel and fans alike. Mahler admitted Tuesday "it made me a somebody after coming here as a nobody."

Simon, an insurance executive in private life, said the Travelodge people provided him with a backup car—the one Mahler qualified — and that terms of his contract called for him to drive the car if it raced.

"Dick can only be looked on in the role of villain if the people see me as the persecuted," Mahler said.

"I don't want it that way. Actually, I'm indebted to Dick. He gave me a chance to pass my rookie test in the car, and it was only after he qualified his own car that I got the chance to qualify the second car. It is unfortunate that he was bumped from the lineup by a faster car."

A sports car driver since 1959, Mahler said the attention he had gained by being ousted from the world's richest race had opened up the future for him.

Simon and the 33 other drivers who will start the race at 11 a.m. Saturday got their last chance to tour the speedway today when they participated in carburetion runs. The tests, to check fuel consumption and tire wear, were to begin at 11 a.m. and last for three hours.

The speedway was to be opened to spectators for the tests—for the first time ever.

Hill Is Fined For Actions In Golf Clash

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Dave Hill, the sometimes bad boy of the pro golf tour, faced a $500 fine today on the eve of his defense of the title in the $175,000 Danny Thomas Memphis Golf Classic.

The off-fined Hill, center of a number of controversies in recent years, had to pay the fine before he was eligible to play in this tournament that he has won three of the last four years.

"If I didn't do something like that once in a while, I'd go right up the side of the wall," Hill said of his action in the second round of last week's Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament.

It was those actions—he threw a ball out of a trap and purposely signed an incorrect scorecard—that prompted the disciplinary move by the Tournament Players Division of the PGA.

The action was not announced publicly, but levy of the fine was learned by The Associated Press. Under TPD rules it is classified as a major fine—Hill was assessed only $150 for his much-publicized criticism of the United States Open course a year ago—and often brings other disciplinary action.

The 34-year-old Hill, winner of eight tour titles, remained a strong favorite for the $35,000 first prize in the 72 hole test that begins Thursday on the short little Colonial Country Club course, a 6,466 yard, par 70 layout he has dominated in recent years.

Senators Defeat Red Sox, 6-5

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Joe Foy used to have his problems with a manager named Williams in Boston. Now it's the Red Sox who are having trouble in Boston with Foy and a manager named Williams.

Foy lashed out four hits Tuesday night and singled home the winning run in the 11th inning to give the Washington Senators a 6-5 triumph over his former team. His error in the eighth had set up Boston's tying run.

It was Washington's second victory in a row over the Red Sox, with Foy collecting seven hits in nine at-bats and raising his average from .204 to .246. He's batting .571 against the Red Sox this season.

In other American League action, Oakland beat California 7-5 in 11 innings, Detroit whipped the New York Yankees 7-4, Minnesota downed Milwaukee 8-5 and Kansas City trounced the Chicago White Sox 8-3. Cleveland was rained out at Baltimore with the Orioles leading 2-1 in the second inning.

Three years ago, after a series of run-ins with manager Dick Williams of the Red Sox, Foy was dealt off to Kansas City. He subsequently wound up with the New York Mets and Washington drafted him off the Mets' minor league roster last winter.

Now Foy can't say enough about his current manager, former Boston great Ted Williams.

Foy's game-winning hit followed walks to Toby Harrah, Tim Cullen and Del Unser.

Earlier, the Senators took a 3-0 lead in the first inning, with Frank Howard drilling a bases-loaded single. Reggie Smith hit a solo homer for Boston in the third as the Red Sox battled back.

Foy's old boss, Dick Williams, also had a happy evening. Dave Duncan's second home run of the game tied the score with two out in the ninth inning and Williams' Oakland A's went on to beat the Angels on Reggie Jackson's two-run blast in the 13th.

Dick Green hit a three-run homer for the A's while Ken McMullen and Roger Repoz connected for the Angels.

The red-hot Tigers blew a 3-0 lead but ripped into relievers Lindy McDaniel and Jack Aker for four runs in the seventh and whipped the stumbling Yankees, who have dropped nine of their last 11 games. The Tigers have won seven straight.

Singles by Al Kaline, Jim Northrup and Norm Cash tied the score, the go-ahead run scored on a fielder's choice and Aurelio Rodriguez and Ed Brinkman added run-scoring singles.

Harmon Killebrew drove in four runs with a homer and double to pace the Twins over the Brewers. Killebrew's two-run double and a three-run homer by George Mitterwald accounted for five runs in the sixth inning as the Twins snapped a 3-all tie.

starting rotation despite the statistics.

Bob Aspromonte drilled a Jim Bunning offering into the right field corner to score the winning run for New York in the bottom of the 12th. Donn Clendenon roared home from second base on the two-out single.

Tim Foli reached first on an infield error to open the inning. Tommie Agee walked and was forced at second by Clendenon, as Foli took third. Foli was caught at home on Cleon Jones' grounder to shortstop Larry Bowa, but then Aspromonte delivered the game-winner.

Johnny Edwards brought Houston from behind with a three-run homer in the seventh inning. Clay Kirby had a 2-0 cushion and was working on a one-hitter when John Mayberry singled and rode to third on Norm Miller's double. Edwards then ripped a two-out homer, his first of the year.

Fred Gladding pitched a scoreless ninth inning for Houston, although rapped for a double and infield single, to preserve starter Jack Billingham's first victory since April 18.

Ron Swoboda's bases-loaded walk in the seventh inning scored the winning run for Montreal. Swoboda's walk off Phil Niekro followed passes to Rusty Staub and Bob Bailey and an error by second baseman Felix Millan on Ron Fairly's sharp grounder.

The Expos had tied the game 2-2 on Fairly's run-scoring single in the fifth.

Ted Simmons' run-scoring single in the third inning broke a 2-2 tie and St. Louis led the victory over Chicago with a run in the fourth on a single by Joe Hogue, walk to Julian Javier and single by Ted Sizemore.

St. Louis southpaw Steve Carlton survived Chicago's two-run third. Jim Hickman singled home the second run of the four-hit inning, but afterward Carlton worked six straight innings without allowing a safety.

Cincinnati, helped by three Pittsburgh errors, poured seven runs across in the first two innings to beat the Pirates as Ross Grimsley nailed down his first major league victory.

Pittsburgh's Bob Moose walked Pete Rose to start the game and Woody Woodward and Lee May both were safe on infield errors. Tony Perez drove in one run with an infield out and Bernie Carbo delivered two more with a single.

Buddy Bradford singled to start the second and Grimsley sacrificed. But Moose fired wildly into center field, the ball skittering to the wall as Bradford scored and Grimsley raced to third. Rose doubled for the second run and May cashed in another with a sacrifice fly before Johnny Bench belted his 14th home run.

Devlin And Goalby Enter Cleveland Open

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Defending champion Bruce Devlin and Bob Goalby, the 1968 Masters winner, are among five more players who have sent in their entries for the $150,000 Cleveland Open golf tournament at the Beechmont Country Club June 24-27.

Other members of the group are Ed Furgol, who won the U.S. Open in 1954, and four sophomores Hal Underwood and Larry Wood.

Lowenstein Placed On Disabled List

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The Cleveland Indians have placed infielder-outfielder John Lowenstein on the disabled list. Lowenstein was readmitted to the Lutheran Medical Center in Cleveland Tuesday after his injured right lower leg and left ankle began to bother him after some light workouts.

Lowenstein was injured May 17 in a collision with Vada Pinson and Jack Heidemann while chasing a pop fly off the bat of Washington Senator Tom McCraw.

2 More Schools Approved By MAC

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The admission of at least two more schools into the Mid-American Conference was approved Tuesday by the league's Council of Presidents. Conference Commissioner Fred Jacoby declined to name the schools approved during the closed meeting Tuesday, saying, "Negotiations must, of necessity remain confidential, but we anticipate positive action to be taken and announced sometime around July 1."

Rain Washes Game Out For Tribe

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Rain not only washed out the Cleveland Indians game with the Baltimore Orioles Tuesday, but it also wiped out a home run by Ken Harrelson and a poor first-inning pitching performance from Alan Foster.

Foster was slammed for a triple, two singles and a home run by Frank Robinson in the first inning that staked Baltimore to a 2-0 lead. Cleveland bounced back in the second on Harrelson's homer and a double by Ted Uhlaender but then the rain came and washed out the contest.

The game was rescheduled as part of a two-night doubleheader to be played here on Labor Day, Sept. 6.

Manager Alvin Dark said Foster will be set back in the rotation and that Rich Hand will hurl tonight against the Orioles' Mike Cuellar, 5-1, weather permitting.

After the game was rained out, Baltimore manager Earl Weaver was asked what the difference was between this season and last since his Birds are in the unfamiliar position of second place in the American League East.

"The only thing wrong with my team are two guys named Vida Blue and Sonny Siebert," said Weaver. Both have recorded two triumphs over Baltimore this year. Blue has a 10-1 record for Oakland and Siebert is 8-0 with Boston.

Slate Talks On Barton, Argonauts

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle, trying to avoid an open conflict between his National Football League and the Canadian Football League, prepared today to take the Greg Barton case to the CFL for discussion.

"We have compiled the information on the case and we plan to talk to the CFL," he said after a meeting of NFL owners Tuesday. "I don't know what the chances are of getting Barton back until I talk to them."

Rozelle is trying to put out a spark that has raised talk of war between the leagues. The spark is Barton, an obscure quarterback with Detroit who suddenly became a cause celebre when he was traded to the Philadelphia Eagles, apparently agreed to sign with the Eagles and then was spirited away by the Toronto Argonauts of the CFL.

"If we do have any evidence that Toronto tampered by talking to Barton before he played out his option we would prefer to give it to them (the CFL) first," Rozelle said. "We have no contractual agreement with the CFL, only an oral agreement against tampering, but both sides would prefer to avoid a bad situation. If we have evidence, I would hope that they (the CFL) would abide by it."

Meanwhile, Coach Jerry Williams of the Eagles, hard-pressed for a quarterback after trading Norm Snead the same week he thought he had acquired Barton, talked about a possible war between the leagues.

White Sox First For Baseball Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — The Chicago White Sox will pick first when organized baseball conducts its summer free agents draft here June 8-9.

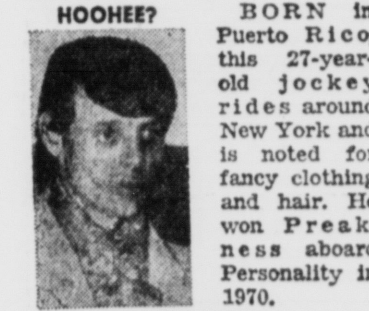

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, announcing the format for the draft Tuesday, said the major league clubs, as in previous years, will pick in the inverse order of their 1970 finish.

The selections in the second phase of the draft, which involved "active" and "delayed" sections, are determined by drawings.

Unusual Prep All-Star Tilt Set Tonight

CINCINNATI (AP) — A high school all-star series, unusual in Ohio and other states as well, starts tonight with a football game at Nippert Stadium here.

A basketball game will be held Thursday night at the Cincinnati Gardens to complete the event, the first annual East-West High School All-Star series. Net proceeds will be donated to the Neediest Kids of All charity here.

The games will feature most of the top graduating seniors from the high schools in the Western portion of Hamilton County against those from the Eastern section, as well as two schools in Clermont County.

Because the Ohio High School Athletic Association does not sanction all-star games, the seniors playing the two games will forfeit eligibility to compete in high school sports for the rest of the year, nearly one week.

The Cincinnati Enquirer and WKRC radio and television are sponsoring the games, which were the brainchild of Denny Dressman, Enquirer sports reporter. Some 10,000 people are expected to attend the football game, while an estimated 5,000 are expected to take in the basketball game. Nippert Stadium is the home of the University of Cincinnati.

Joe Clark head coach at Indian Hill High School, will pilot the East football team and Tom Ballaban, head coach at St. Xavier, will coach the West squad. Each team has four coaches and four players.

California Angel Sandy Alomar and New York Yankee Roy White were the American League durability leaders in 1970. Each played in 162 games.

starting rotation despite the statistics.

Bob Aspromonte drilled a Jim Bunning offering into the right field corner to score the winning run for New York in the bottom of the 12th. Donn Clendenon roared home from second base on the two-out single.

Tim Foli reached first on an infield error to open the inning. Tommie Agee walked and was forced at second by Clendenon, as Foli took third. Foli was caught at home on Cleon Jones' grounder to shortstop Larry Bowa, but then Aspromonte delivered the game-winning.

Johnny Edwards brought Houston from behind with a three-run homer in the seventh inning. Clay Kirby had a 2-0 cushion and was working on a one-hitter when John Maberry singled and rode to third on Norm Miller's double. Edwards then ripped a two-out homer, his first of the year.

Fred Gladding pitched a scoreless ninth inning for Houston, although rapped for a double and infield single, to preserve starter Jack Billingham's first victory since April 18.

Ron Swoboda's bases-loaded walk in the seventh inning scored the winning run for Montreal. Swoboda's walk off Phil Niekro followed passes to Rusty Staub and Bob Bailey and an error by second baseman Felix Millan on Ron Fairly's sharp grounder.

The Expos had tied the game 2-2 on Fairly's run-scoring single in the fifth.

Ted Simmons' run-scoring single in the third inning broke a 2-2 tie and St. Louis iced the victory over Chicago with a run in the fourth on a single by Joe Hagge, walk to Julian Javier and single by Ted Sizemore.

St. Louis southpaw Steve Carlton survived Chicago's two-run third. Jim Hickman singled home the second run of the four-hit inning, but afterward Carlton worked six straight innings without allowing a safety. Cincinnati, helped by three Pittsburgh errors, poured seven runs across in the first two innings to beat the Pirates as Ross Grimsley nailed down his first major league victory.

Pittsburgh's Bob Moose walked Pete Rose to start the game and Woody Woodward and Lee May both were safe on infield errors. Tony Perez drove in one run with an infield out and Bernie Carbo delivered two more with a single.

Rose doubled for the second run and May cashed in another with a sacrifice fly before Johnny Bench belted his 14th home run.

Unusual Prep All-Star Tilt Set Tonight

CINCINNATI (AP) — A high school all-star series, unusual in Ohio and other states as well, starts tonight with a football game at Nippert Stadium here.

A basketball game will be held Thursday night at the Cincinnati Gardens to complete the event, the first annual East-West High School All-Star series. Net proceeds will be donated to the Neediest Kids of All charity here.

The games will feature most of the top graduating seniors from the high schools in the Western portion of Hamilton County against those from the Eastern section, as well as two schools in Clermont County.

Because the Ohio High School Athletic Association does not sanction all-star games, the seniors playing the two games will forfeit eligibility to compete in high school sports for the rest of the year, nearly one week.

The Cincinnati Enquirer and WKRC radio and television are sponsoring the games, which were the brainchild of Denny Dressman, Enquirer sports reporter. Some 10,000 people are expected to attend the football game, while an estimated 5,000 are expected to take in the basketball game. Nippert Stadium is the home of the University of Cincinnati.

Joe Clark head coach at Indian Hill High School, will pilot the East football team and Tom Ballaban, head coach at St. Xavier, will coach the West squad. Each team has four coaches and four players.

California Angel Sandy Alomar and New York Yankee Roy White were the American League durability leaders in 1970. Each played in 162 games.
